Edward G. Robinson Suffers Heart Attack

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP)—Actor
Edward G. Robinson was reported seriously ill in a hospital in northern Tanganyika after a heart attack early today.

Robinson, who is 68, is making a movie in the area. The company is camped at 6,000 feet on a 15, 000-foot mountain near Mt. Kilimanjaro.

A heart specialist was flown there from Nairobi to attend the film star.

The film group's doctor had left to drive to Nairobi, 200 miles away, a few hours before Robinson became ill. The doctor himself is in the hospital now—his car crashed a few miles outside Arusha and he was injured.

Nelson Favors Legislative Group's Redistricting Plans

Legislature Ready to Act on Population Basis but Area Proposal Must be Deferred

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
Post-Crescent Staff Writer
MADISON—Reapportionment according to new census patterns of the state is now vitally certain, but the legislature is also likely to set up another trial of a new system of legislative districting that provides some weight to geographical area.

Leaders of the Republican legislative majority returned to the capitol today talking about a straight population redistricting, as they are under pressure to do by the federal court, with a constitutional amendment, for a new system of districting as an alternative.

The population districting system would become law, presumably for the elections this fall, but the constitutional amendment would provide a means for a modified system of apportioning legislative seats in the future.

Talk of Compromise

Some legislators said privately that they are not sure they can put through a statutory reapportionment, even under the pressure of federal court mandate, without the area proposal as a compromise to bring along the votes of their rural colleagues who dread the trend toward urban control of the state government.

The commonly discussed method of "area" representation—dubbed "areacrat" by scoffing critics—is through the organization of one house of the legislature, such as the senate, according to the geographical area, and the other, such as the assembly, strictly according to a population apportionment.

If this legislature approved such an amendment, it would go before the next legislature next spring, and then could be submitted to a ratifying popular referendum, as early as April of 1963.

Court Intervenes

Such a two-pronged reapportionment plan had been in preparation by the Republican legislative leadership when it was caught off guard by the abrupt pronouncement by the panel of three federal district court judges last week that the legislature must act promptly, or the courts would write a districting plan of their own.

A combination of area and population formula for the organization of the legislature was pushed vigorously nine years ago, and then narrowly defeated. There has been sentiment for it among rural representatives in every legislature since that time.

One of the chief champions of such a system is the Wisconsin Towns Association, which has op-only expressed the fear that urban control of the legislature through the present constitutional system will ultimately strangle the rural interest in state government and throttle rural institutions, including town and county governments.

ty governments.

Set to Veto Any Unfair Bill, He Says

MADISON — Gov. Nelson today told the legislature, convening in a special session for reapportionment of legislative and congressional districts, that he will veto any unfair measure reshaping the political map of Wisconsin.

Nelson addressed a message to both houses of the legislature. He called the special session after the federal courts announced that they will refashion political districts if the legislature fails to do so.

GOP Leader Delivers Scathing Verbal Attack

business today, Republican leaders took the floor to deliver a scathing attack on a panel of three federal judges. Gov. Gaylord Nelson and Atty. Gen. John W. Reynolds.

Republican floorleader Robert Haase, R - Marinette, drew applause with a fiery speech in which he said "nobody is going to tell the Legislature how to run this state."

"The constitution says we are to reapportion," Haase said, "not three little men on a court, not the attorney general, and not Nelson."

the legislature that a bill drafted by the legislative council to transfer four Assembly seats from northern and western Wisconsin and one state Senate seat to Waukesha and Milwaukee counties will be equitable and acceptable to him. There are 100 seats in the Assembly and 33 in the Senate.

The same measure would do away with the existing Ninth Congressional District in northwestern Wisconsin, now held by Democratic Rep. Lester Johnson of Black River Falls, and attach it to the neighboring Third, Seventh and Tenth districts in order to create a new congressional seat for suburban Milwaukee and Waukesha County. Such action would force Johnson, if he wants to run for re-election, to compete in the fall with either Vernon W.
Thomson of Richland Center or
Rep. Alvin O'Konski of Mercer, Republicans.

Troops Guard Prison After Riot by 1,100

30 Wounded in Canadian Outbreak, Property Loss Heavy

MONTREAL (AP) — Steel-helmeted troops stood guard today amid the smoking ruins of St.
Vincent de Paul Penitentiary, set ablaze by 1,100 convicts in bloody riot that left 30 persons wounded.

None of the convicts escaped, but some were shot down while trying to scale the walls.

"We had to shoot when they tried to escape or occupy other buildings," said Warden Michael LeCoore, "but we did not shoot to kill."

Damage in Millions

The six-hour battle was finally ended after more than 200 troops in full battle dress joined guards and police, herding the convicts at bayonet point into a group in side the compound.

Six of the 15 prison buildings were burned out. Others were damaged to varying degrees. Officials figured the damage to the old maximum security prison just northeast of Montreal would come to between $2 million and $3 million.

Firemen hampered by lack of water fought early today to quell flames in the main building housing cell blocks and administrative offices.

Twenty-seven prisoners were injured by flames or bullets as guards fired on convicts armed

Supreme Court Will Review Decision on Georgia Unit System

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme RT AGREED TODAY TO Rpreme Court agreed today to review a decision holding unconstitutional Georgia's county unit vote system used in Democratic primaries.

The decision, by a three-judge federal court in Atlanta, was appealed to the high tribunal by the Georgia State Democratic party and Eugene Cook, Georgia's attorney general.

The three-judge court declared the system as presently constituted resulting in an "invidious discrimination" against urban voters and in favor of those in rural areas.

The Supreme Court's action was announced in a brief order.

The issue will not come up for argument before the court's new term which begins Oct. 1.

The court turned down a request for an immediate hearing.

High Winds, Lightning Strike Twice

The Fox Cities area was picking up the pieces today after winds, lightning, thunder and rain hit the Fox Cities Sunday and again early this morning with the heaviest blows in recent years.

Winds up to 80 miles an hour brought down barns, mobile homes, garages, roofs, trees and powerpoles. Many watched the torrential rain and lightning in darkness, without electric power.
There only were minor injuries.

The skies dropped better than one inch of rain between 6:30 and 8:15 p.m. Sunday and 1:30 and 4:45 a.m. today. But the rain was only a sideshow to the spectacular thunder, lightning bolts and wind.

Line of Storms

The storms in this area were part of a line of thunderstorms that hurled east across the state and crossed Lake Michigan, the United States Weather Bureau at Austin Straubel Field in Green Bay reported.

Property damage was reported in 13 counties. The Oconto and Wausau areas were hit hardest.

Of the Fox Cities, Oshkosh was hardest hit. Fifty Civil Defense policemen were called out to direct traffic around fallen wires, trees and limbs. The city was without power for 48 minutes.
Windows were broken at three stores and the roof and one wall of a small grocery store were

Maine Voters Go To Primary Polls

PORTLAND, Maine (AP) —
Maine citizens vote today in primaries which offer three contests for major nominations, as well as a $1.5-million bond issue referendum which would, if approved, put the state in the educational television field.

Election officials expect a light vote—less than 100,000.

The nomination fight that has offered the most interest is between the two Republican congressmen who seek to represent the new enlarged 1st District.

Rep. Stanley R. Tupper, a moderate whose present 2nd District is being eliminated through reapportionment, faces conservative
Peter A. Garland, of the present
1st District. Both are first-term congressmen.

Both Sides Predict Victory in Canada

Polls, Surveys Indicate Extremely Close Election; Liberal Party Popularity Down in Last Weeks

TORONTO (AP) — Both Prime Minister John Diefenbaker's Conservatives and the opposition Liberals predict victory as Canadians vote today in their first national election in four years.

The Gallup poll and other surveys indicate an extremely close contest. A number of unknown factors—such as the strength of the minor parties—could have an important bearing on the results.

One possibility was the failure of either major party to get a clear majority of the 265 seats in the House of Commons. This would mean that the winner—Diefenbaker or Liberal leader Lester B. Pearson—could form a government only with the cooperation of the smaller parties.

Similar to 1957
Such a situation probably would result in a new election within a year, as happened after the Conservatives in 1957 ended 22 years of Liberal rule.

Both the 67-year-old prime minister and Pearson, 65-year-old Nobel Peace prize-winner, claimed their parties would get more than the 133 seats needed for a majority in the House.

T. C. (Tommy) Douglas, leader of the New Democratic party, maintained that the Conservative government would be ousted. It appeared certain that his party and the Social Credit party, headed by Robert Thompson, would register substantial gains over the eight seats now held by the two groups.

Key to the Outcome
The key to the outcome seemed to be the size of the gains the Liberals will make in populous Quebec and Ontario provinces, which together hold 160 seats in the House. It is generally agreed that the Liberals will win back many of the seats they lost in the Conservative sweep in 1958.

One of the things making the forecast more cautious was the indication in the latest Gallup poll that the popular support of the Liberals had slipped in recent weeks. The latest figure showed the Liberals only two percentage points ahead of the Conservatives. They had been 10 per cent ahead early this month.

The Conservatives had 203 seats in the last House. The Liberals had only 51.

In Canada—as in Britain—the voter does not ballot directly for a prime minister but only for a member of the House of Commons to represent his own district. The leader of the winning party becomes prime minister.

Although Pearson is a candidate in the Algoma East District on the northern shore of Lake Huron, he planned to cast his ballot in Ottawa where he now maintains his residence.

Diefenbaker, one-time country lawyer, returned to his home city of Prince Albert, Sask., to vote.

The campaign has been fought mainly on economic issues, with unemployment and the government's recent devaluation of the Canadian dollar generating the most heat.

A record number of 9.8 million voters were eligible to take part in the election. Some observers doubt the turnout will be as good as in 1958, when 80 per cent of the registered voters went to the polls.

But Keogh, 56, a veteran of 12 years on the bench, declared immediately after the federal court jury announced its verdict that his attorneys "will press my appeal from this unjust conviction as soon as possible."

Claims Innocence
"I am innocent—nothing anyone can do or say will change that fact," Keogh told newsmen.

His status as a State Supreme Court justice was expected to come up for an early review by the appellate division in Brooklyn.

Keogh has been drawing his $34,500 annual salary since his indictment last Dec. 7. He has been without court assignments since that time at his own request.

U.S. Dist. Judge Edward Weinfield set July 17 for sentencing Keogh and the two others. Each man could be sentenced to prison for five years and be fined $10,000.

Keogh and Kahaner were convicted of having shared a $35,000 bribe, supplied by Corallo, in return for promising to influence U.S. Dist. Judge Leo F. Rayfield to give a light sentence to Sanford J. Moore, a Long Island jukebox operator. Moore had pleaded guilty to defrauding a bankruptcy trustee.

Congressional Action Due on 3 Major Bills

Farm, Space, Tax Measures Probably Will be Debated

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two big farm bills, a space communications measure and possibly a tax bill promise to provide lively floor action this week for the House and Senate.

Side attractions in committees include continuation of Senate probes of B-grains and stockpiling and a House investigation of the Billie Sol Estes case.

Both farm measures are on the House docket.

The first, scheduled for debate today, would extend the quota system for buying foreign sugar for five years. It would give quotas to 15 new countries to slice up part of Cuba's former "big allotment" and would boost domestic producers' share about 5 per cent.

Quote Elimination
Knocked out of the bill in committee and likely to be the subject of a floor battle is an administration provision to eliminate quotas for individual nations and gradually do away with premium price payments for imported sugar.

Far more controversial and in a more precarious position is a general farm bill scheduled to keep the House busy the rest of the week.

For the first time, it would bring wheat and feed grains under strict acreage and marketing controls.

It would allow the secretary of agriculture to set a national production quota at a level low enough to funnel into the market some of the government's huge surplus grain stockpile.

Republicans Bitter
Republicans are bitter over the feed grain section, which applies to corn, barley, oats, rye and grain sorghum.

The bill, slated for House action last week, was held up by administration leaders who were not certain they had the votes.

Some compromise may be worked out before the final vote.

The communications satellite bill, passed by the House, may take up the Senate week because of controversy over the role government should play in the newly developing field.

It may be laid aside long enough for the Senate to act on another House-passed measure continuing beyond June 30 emergency tax rates on corporations.

'Crusade Just Begun,' Graham Tells Throng

CHICAGO (AP)—Billy Graham binged that has no parallel in his capped his Chicago "Crusade for Christ" Sunday by telling the largest American audience of his evangelistic career, "The crusade has just begun."

Some 116,000 persons—jammed elbow-to-elbow in Soldier Field in 90-degree heat — heard Graham give his final sermon of the 19-day crusade.

Graham has addressed larger crowds only twice in 15 years of evangelistic crusading, both times in Australia in 1959. He spoke to 140,000 in Melbourne and 125,000 in Sydney. More than 100,000 persons heard the evangelist preach in New York City's Yankee Stadium in 1957.

Urges Dedication
He urged members of his Chicago audience to dedicate their lives to God, to put religion into their social, economic and civic lives, and to fight what he termed, "internal decadence of the culture."

"This crusade doesn't end today. It is only the beginning. Now you have heard the Gospel and you must go out and live as Christians. You are held responsible by God."

Sex Binge
Graham listed several reasons why he thought America is backsliding morally in a manner similar to ancient Rome.

"America has gone on a sex binge that has no parallel in his-capped his Chicago 'Crusade for Christ' Sunday by telling the largest American audience of his evangelistic career, 'The crusade has just begun.'"

Some 116,000 persons—jammed elbow-to-elbow in Soldier Field in 90-degree heat — heard Graham give his final sermon of the 19-day crusade.

Graham has addressed larger crowds only twice in 15 years of evangelistic crusading, both times in Australia in 1959. He spoke to 140,000 in Melbourne and 125,000 in Sydney. More than 100,000 persons heard the evangelist preach in New York City's Yankee Stadium in 1957.

Urges Dedication
He urged members of his Chicago audience to dedicate their lives to God, to put religion into their social, economic and civic lives, and to fight what he termed, "internal decadence of the culture."

"This crusade doesn't end today. It is only the beginning. Now you have heard the Gospel and you must go out and live as Christians. You are held responsible by God."

Sex Binge
Graham listed several reasons why he thought America is backsliding morally in a manner similar to ancient Rome.

"America has gone on a sex binge that has no parallel in his-capped his Chicago 'Crusade for Christ' Sunday by telling the largest American audience of his evangelistic career, 'The crusade has just begun.'"

Find Body Under Porch in Kenosha

KENOSHA (AP)—The body of an industrial worker who had been missing for two weeks was found Sunday under a porch near his rooming house. The coroner said he had been stabbed twice in the abdomen.

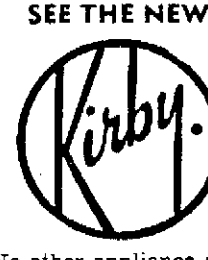

The badly decomposed body of Kenneth Sepanski, 29, was discovered by a neighbor.

When Kenosha County Coroner Edward Wavro said after the autopsy that Sepanski had been stabbed, police began to investigate reports that the victim had been in a fight shortly before he was listed as missing.

Wavro said tissues had been sent to the State Crime Laboratory in Madison for additional testing.

Sepanski, who was the father of two small sons, was divorced last January.

King-Anderson Bill in Shaky Health, Ribicoff Admits in TV Interview

AMA Leader Charges Measure Would Lower Health Standards

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Welfare Abraham Ribicoff concedes the administration's medical care for the aged plan is in shaky health, and says he's ready for legislative surgery on it.

The president of the American Medical Association, meanwhile, has charged passage of the measure would undermine the nation's health care standards. Dr. Leonard W. Larson said that has been the outcome in every country that tried "politically controlled medicine."

Larson said Sunday the administration's program would swiftly mushroom into socialized medicine. He spoke in an interview on the Manion Radio Forum, broadcast from South Bend, Ind.

Some Optimism
Ribicoff said Sunday night in a television interview—NBC—Meet the Press—that while the medical care bill is in difficulty in the Ways and Means Committee "I really think we have an opportunity to come out with a favorable report."

Ribicoff said the administration is prepared to accept changes in the bill, but will not compromise on its central feature—financing under the Social Security System. He said that "goes to the very heart of the program. Without the Social Security approach you don't have a program."

"There are a number of alternatives that in my opinion could be very beneficial to the bill," Ribicoff said. Among them, he said, are:

No Coverage
Provision for coverage for some 3 million elderly persons who would not come under the current version because they are not covered by Social Security.

Participation by Blue Cross, the private hospitalization insurance firm, in some aspects of the administration of the medical care program.

An option system, under which an elderly person could choose government coverage, or take cash equal to the Social Security protection to purchase private health insurance.

Larson attacked the administration plan in these terms: "What would start out as socialized medicine for a small segment of our population would soon become socialized medicine for every man, woman and child in this country."

"There is no reason why we should impose that type of system upon the people in this country," Larson said. "I do not believe our people would accept it if it ever came to pass."

U. S. Ready to Fire Nuclear Shot Tonight

Explosion to be Biggest, Highest In Test Series

HONOLULU (AP) — The U.S. nuclear testing force made ready to fire its highest and biggest blast over the Pacific after dark tonight—about dawn Tuesday in the eastern United States.

The mammoth explosion was expected to light the sky with a flash brighter than sunshine and to be visible in Hawaii, 750 miles northeast of the Johnston Island launch site.

It was scheduled for firing between 11 p.m. tonight—4 a.m. Tuesday EST—and 2:30 a.m. Tuesday—7:30 a.m. EST.

Scientists say communications throughout the Pacific will be disrupted for almost two days after the shot, 50 to 500 times as powerful as the atom bomb dropped on Hiroshima. It will be exploded some 200 miles above the Pacific.

to try to predict long-term effects of such a shot.

"They may be harmless. They may be destructive. To move ahead is to stake the future of mankind in an ill-considered game of chance," the scientists said.

The 20th announced detonation in the current series in the Pacific was exploded Sunday in the area of Christmas Island, some 1,200 miles south of Honolulu.

It was an intermediate-range device of a force equal to that of 20,000 to one million tons of TNT.

An auroral effect, much like the northern lights, is expected to flash across the Pacific when the big blast disrupts the Van Allen belt.

The device will be boosted aloft atop a Thor intermediate range missile, the same type used June 4 in the first Johnston Island test which failed when the missile's tracking system malfunctioned.

The Federal Aviation Agency announced last week that the blast will disrupt high frequency communications on 20, 10, and 5 megacycles across the Pacific.

Some frequencies are expected to be washed out for as long as 32 hours after the blast, the announcement said.

Mobile Homes Must Pay Taxes

300 State Cities Assess Permits Under Fee System

MADISON — The mobile home is no longer a means of escaping payment for local government services in the way of taxation. Nearly 300 Wisconsin cities and villages have provided for taxation of trailer homes with monthly parking permit fees, according to a survey announced by the League of Wisconsin Municipalities. The total is probably a majority of the communities in which any substantial number of such vehicles are kept, the League said.

Enacted Law

The legislature, about a decade ago at the behest of interested local governments, enacted a law setting up the fee system, on a monthly basis and computed according to the cost of governmental services provided to the occupants of trailers.

Generally the fee payments run to modest amounts. The League said the average was about $5.62 a month, with relatively little difference in communities of varying populations.

The fee system was attacked in the courts several years ago, but the state supreme court upheld its validity, while cautioning municipalities against arbitrary assessments.

Menominee Health Survey

Indian County to Be Studied by Staff of 5 Doctors

MADISON — A survey of the health services and health problems of the residents of Menominee County has been ordered by the State Medical Society through one of its major commissions.

The health problems of Menominee County residents have been among the most frequently mentioned in connection with the termination of the reservation status of the former Menominee Indian tribe.

Said Dr. James C. Fox, LaCrosse, chairman of the Society's executive council:

"Physicians in bordering counties have carried this problem in the best traditions of the medical profession, but it seems apparent that an over-all study of the situation is indicated."

Five Doctors to Help

The study will include such subjects as cancer detection, screening, immunization, prenatal and post-natal care.

A committee of five physicians will direct the study, probably calling on others for assistance.

with stones, knives, zip guns and Molotov cocktails — gasoline-filled jars set afire by a rag wick. Three guards were hurt.

After the riot leaders were weeded out, about two thirds of the prisoners were put under some kind of shelter for the night. The rest were herded against a prison wall and had to spend the night outdoors in 50-degree weather because no buildings were available.

Prison officials said they had been unable to determine the cause of the riot, which flared in mid-afternoon during the exercise period.

First sign of trouble came when a group of prisoners stormed out of the kitchen and through the library and psychiatric section.

As guards moved to stop them, other convicts set fire to buildings.

Try to Seal Walls

An emergency call brought in Quebec provincial police, then Canadian mounted police and finally the army as firemen from four cities fought the spreading fires.

The guards opened fire as prisoners tried to form pyramids to scale the 40-foot walls.

At least 10 convicts were shot when they refused to get away from a crane whose boom they were trying to move to a wall. Others were burned when caught between burning buildings after ignoring orders to get out.

When prison staff members tried to fight the fires, the convicts snatched knives from the kitchen and slashed the hoses.

Area Sealed Off

Police sealed off the St. Vincent de Paul area and closed the bridge connecting it with Montreal Island to all but emergency traffic.

A stream of ambulances roared in and out of the prison, rushing wounded and injured to Montreal's Queen Mary Veterans Hospital.

Witnesses at the hospital described "convicts with towels wrapped around their heads and blood streaming down their faces."

St. Vincent de Paul is the biggest and one of the most overcrowded of Canada's six maximum-security prisons.

About 400 convicts were housed in cells which a royal commission recommended 24 years ago "should be condemned without qualification." Justice Minister Davie Fulton has described conditions in the prison as "most undesirable."

Frank Sinatra Raises Money for Children on World Singing Tour

NEW YORK (AP)—Frank Sinatra has returned from a world singing tour in which he said he raised about $12 million for handicapped and orphaned children. He said he hopes to make another one within the next 18 months.

The 2½-month trip took the singer to Mexico, Japan, Hong Kong, Israel, Greece, Italy, Monaco, France and England.

They are Drs. Glen J. Steusser, Madison, Elmer P. Rohde, Galveston; Emril R. Krueger, Hayward; George Nadeau, Green Bay, and Patricia F. Lanier, Kewanee.

State agencies will collaborate, and after the report is filed with the Council, the Society leaders will set up a long range health program fitted to the needs of the Indian county, the announcement here said.

Difficult Job

Kennedy Attempts to Woo Business Failing

BY FRANK CORMIER

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy is attempting one of the most difficult bridge-building jobs of recent years, and so far, having very little success.

The President is trying to span the gulf between business and government, even as events in Wall Street and his own fiscal and economic policies cause the gulf to widen.

Unquestionably, one of the biggest obstacles facing Kennedy is the suspicion of the federal government shared by a great many businessmen. This suspicion has deep roots and may never be dispelled, but it can be reduced.

Relations Discussed

Evidence of this was supplied last Thursday in a little-noted address at the Brookings Institution by Undersecretary of Commerce Edward Gudeman, a former vice president of Sears, Roebuck and Co. Gudeman discussed government-business relations.

"If someone had written this speech for me two years ago," said Gudeman, "I would have rejected it. I realize now that when I was part of top management of a major American enterprise, discuss broad tax problems. One I was rather insulated from the such meeting was held last week.

A newsman asked members of the group to assess these meetings. All who were questioned agreed that the session had reduced their own suspicion of IRS. They said the revenue service had shown a willingness to accept suggestions. Equally important, it had demonstrated that questions of tax policy are resolved only after thorough and rational discussion.

One member of the advisory group is Dana Latham, a Republican attorney from Los Angeles who was IRS commissioner in the last two years of the Eisenhower administration. Latham said meetings show IRS officials are "not just an arbitrary bunch of so-and-so's sitting here making decisions in a vacuum."

Kennedy can draw encouragement from the words of Gudeman, Cabot and Latham. At the same time, their testimony is disheartening because it suggests that business suspicions may be reduced significantly only through first-hand experience. Only a small minority of businessmen can expect to receive such experience.

Are Keynote Speeches Just Speeches?

Gov. Gaylord Nelson will give the keynote address at the opening session of the state Democratic convention in Milwaukee late this week. This should be a classic. Whether it will bring the Democratic leaders together or scatter them further remains to be seen. As matters now stand in this party, Gov. Nelson is a candidate for the nomination for U. S. Senator. Presumably he is standing on his record. The other Democratic party leaders, including Atty. Gen. John Reynolds who is seeking the nomination for governor, Patrick J. Lucey, state party chairman, and John Gronouski, state tax commissioner, have renounced most of the works of the Nelson administration and are taking off on a program of their own.

Recently Reynolds prevailed upon the state platform drafting committee to call for repeal of the selective 3 per cent sales tax adopted during the Nelson administration and signed by the governor. When this was agreed to, the Democratic leaders had abandoned the chief accomplishment of the Nelson administration during its four years in office. The adoption of this law is important because it represents high achievement by the governor in the face of adversity. In signing this bill Gov. Nelson said of his legislative supporters, "This coalition of moderates has earned each of its members a permanent place in the honorable history of our state. With one huge and intensive effort, we have jumped 20 years to catch up with the needs of our times. I hope we can now keep pace."

The selective sales tax bill is of course far from perfect. In fact, these columns have previously described it as a hodgepodge, placing heavy burdens upon merchants and adding unnecessary expense for the state in administering it. Nevertheless, it was a step forward, and with this legislation on the books it is possible to modify the law and make it workable. The Republicans now seeking office propose to replace it with a general sales tax with provision for easing the burden on wage earners by offering refunds as a part of the income tax settlement.

As a matter of fact, Gov. Nelson's hodgepodge selective sales tax measure is on the books today because of his urgent desire to please the very elements of the party which now are deserting it and him. The Republican legislature had adopted a general sales tax measure which was workable and had adequate provision to protect the small income people from unfair taxation. The governor might well have signed that bill. If he had he would be in a good situation today. He would have been free from criticism by the Republicans and he would also have escaped the criticism that now is being heaped upon him because of the "Nelson selective sales tax measure." The rebellion in his party could by no means have been any worse than it is now. He chose to veto it.

Gov. Nelson now is interested in the Senate seat. He has said that Reynolds has a right to run for governor on any terms he wishes. Thus the governor has abandoned the tax revision fight which he carried on during his four years in office. This means that the people of Wisconsin must defend themselves against a return to the old inadequate system of income tax levies which they have been attempting to correct for no less than 10 years. They will have help in this fight, however, from Philip G. Kuehn who is seeking the Republican nomination for governor.

Taking note of the Democratic leader's intention to abandon Gov. Nelson's selective tax measure Kuehn recently suggested that all candidates for governor should state clearly how they intend to raise money for state purposes to replace any that may be lost through the abandonment of present tax laws, and further, that they should state also where the money is to come from to pay for any new projects they may propose. Those are appropriate proposals and ones which we feel are likely to cause some difficulty for Democratic leadership in the future.

It will be interesting to see how Gov. Nelson will handle them in his keynote address.

What Sort of Image?

One of the silliest of the cold war skirmishes has been going on in Geneva and the whole business has made United States look pretty naive.

Not long ago the conference held a committee of the whole session and approved a declaration which said in effect that propaganda for war was not nice. Each nation was to take "appropriate practical measures" against such propaganda. It was assumed that the delegates had had their home government's permission before agreeing to the declaration.

A few Western optimists hailed the declaration as the sign of a new breakthrough in East-West relations. Some even predicted that the disarmament talks, the reason all the delegates were in Geneva in the first place, could now proceed with hope toward real progress.

But after five days the top Russian delegate, Valerin Zorin, came back to what was expected to be merely a formal approval of the declaration and scotched all the hopes. Zorin wanted amendments. He cited some nasty war propaganda. And for some reason everyone was surprised and pained.

Specifically Zorin demanded legislation which would make war propaganda a criminal offense with the culprit subject to removal from any official rank and position. To show what the Russians meant by war propaganda so as not to leave the Western hopefuls in doubt, Zorin cited books and articles by Dr. Edward Teller, Stewart Alsop, a statement by President Kennedy and the West German Defense Minister.

Furthermore, Zorin said that war propaganda included any suggestions of preventive war, criticism of the "wars of liberation" now being conducted by the Reds in Viet Nam and Laos, and any appeals to changes of borders set by Communist occupation in Europe after World War II. He also viewed with alarm a New York Times editorial questioning the efficacy of the declaration in the first place.

At no time did Zorin use Khrushchev's "we shall bury you!" speech or other threats by Russian and Chinese leaders as examples of war propaganda. And Western spokesmen, apparently so shocked by this double-dealing from a master at the art, never thought to have any such citations themselves.

The disarmament talks are worth the hassles that go on simply because of the terrible danger of total nuclear warfare. But it seems pretty foolish for the United States delegates to waste time upon declarations that obviously mean absolutely nothing and are completely impossible to enforce anyway. In our efforts to seem amenable to suggestions by the Reds we are now presenting an "image" to the world not of a blood hungry monster but of a simpleton. For the peace of the world and any allegiance of the neutral nations this latter picture is even more impotent than the first.

Population in Egypt

A lot of people have been warning about the dangers of overpopulation in the world due to the lower infant mortality rates and improved health procedures but have sought no slowdown in production of babies. In general the more dictatorial leaders have opposed any suggestion of birth control, apparently feeling that it indicated a failure of their regime to provide the sound economic basis for large families and continued progress toward higher living standards.

But Egypt's Gamal Nasser has now done an about face. It is likely that the figures of increases in Egyptian population did some of the convincing.

Egypt's population rose by some 600,000 last year and authorities estimate that it will climb some 800,000 this year. The nation, which is a little bigger than the state of Maryland, supports almost 27 million people.

The fact that the number of people is increasing may indicate a raising of standards but this is not necessarily so. There are some better health procedures and Egypt's infant mortality rate probably is not so high as formerly. But the misery of scratching out a bare existence afflicts thousands of Egypt's fellahins. And Nasser apparently has concluded that he is having enough trouble trying to raise the economic production without a steep increase in people.

Some Americans have facetiously suggested that carloads of automobiles should be shipped to the newly developing countries to keep down the population in the absence of war or plague. Actually, as conditions improve in most areas, families tend to be smaller or at least to have fewer births. But the problem in most of the new countries is that they have emerged so fast from a primitive civilization with its naturally high child death rate that they have not adjusted to the idea of smaller families.

Presumably this will be Nasser's major problem in convincing the Egyptians that family planning is wise and essential. There is little religious objection to birth control in Egypt but a large family, particularly of sons, has been considered a sign of prestige among Egyptian men for centuries. The function of women in Moslem society also has been essentially as a childbearer. The whole social atmosphere will take a considerable amount of change before family planning will be accepted in Egypt.

Crazy Is Trump

Between Defense , Foreign Aid, Medicare, Where We Going?

BY MORRIE RYSKIND

Offhand, you would never regard Alexis de Tocqueville, Huey Long and my grandfather as another Tinker to Evers to Chance combination. But, though far apart as the poles in background and language and even in time, their perceptive comments on the American scene bear a striking resemblance to each other.

Ryskind

The Frenchman saw our virtues clearly, but recognized our dangers, too. And warned prophetically that the rise of pressure groups, combined with political demagogues who might lavishly hand out bread and circuses, might one day destroy us. One need but look at the monolithic juggernaut to which the bodies and souls of many of our representatives are in hock to see how right he was and how near Doomsday is.

Huey's Prediction

The Louisiana professional, who knew The Peepul so well, delivered the same warning in another way. "If fascism or communism ever comes to us," said Huey, "it will come under the guise of 100 per cent Americanism." And every day we see bills introduced that would in effect nationalize still another industry, while the proponent shrieks, "Only reactionaries will label this as socialism, for it truly promotes free enterprise."

Grandpa's interests lay along different lines. He studied neither the Federalist Papers nor de Tocqueville, confining his reading almost entirely to the Old Testament and some of the commentaries thereon. In this he was a specialist who could interpret the most obscure passage and even reconcile apparently conflicting statements in the text.

Absurd Tax On Railroads Discriminatory

From The New York Herald Tribune

One of the more absurd of the nation's mixed-up tax laws is the 10 per cent transportation levy.

To hang such a discriminatory impost (which any excise tax is) around the necks of the hard-pressed railroads, particularly at a time when Congress is searching for means of saving those same railroads from extinction, is ridiculous.

The House Ways and Means Committee approved a measure which at last would eliminate the tax on railroad and bus tickets, and cut it in half — to 5 per cent — on airline fares. On this Congress as a whole should take its cue from Ways and Means.

Quite an assortment of "wartime" excise taxes is extended from year to year by Congress, as regularly as the coming of the seasons, along with the "wartime" corporate tax rate of 52 per cent. The excuse is not that the Korean war is still on, but simply that the government needs the money — whether the taxes are justified or not.

The same government, of course, stands ready to boost its spending to whatever its revenues are going to be, or higher, so the prospect of its ever not "needing" the money is slim.

This at least would be a start, and certainly a logical one. Transportation systems are in enough trouble without having the government add to it by keeping a no longer justified tax.

Cry of Despair

But, though he knew the ways of the Lord so well, the vagaries of American politics remained forever outside his ken. Baffled by the vast difference between the promises and the performance of our politicians and the fact that it seemed in no way to interfere with their constant reelection to office, he would throw up his hands in despair and cry, "Meshuggah ist trumpf."

Translated literally, that Yiddish phrase becomes — as if I had to tell you — "Crazy is trump" — And implies clearly that the patients at the mental health farm have taken over the institution.

I have had occasion, in moments of stress, to fall back on Grandpa's phrase before. But never in our history were the words as appropos as they are today, when the government is in the hands of a group of schizophrenic con men with messianic delusions of grandeur. Daily they perform miracles by a mere laying of hands — and the miracles are authentic, after they have laid their hands on us, our pocketbooks have mysteriously vanished. If our ailments, alas, are still with us, it is because we didn't have faith enough.

Prays as He Preys

Now we Americans, all through our history, have learned to co-exist with the normal pickpocket at the local, the state and the national level. From Boss Tweed to the Pendergast machine, from Teapot Dome to Mr. Estes, we knew the fast-buck lads and could take them in our stride and eventually get rid of them.

But this new breed of pick-pocket who prays as he preys — and does both with sincere piety — is a phenomenon we are as unprepared for as we might be for the rampages of a strange new virus. The spectacle of the preacher rifling the contrivance basket while he gives us his blessing finds us flat-footed.

Maybe Medicare will find the cure, but I fear the epidemic will have to run its course. At the moment we can only sit by and watch helplessly while the schizos, in their manic phase,

Looking Backward

Wisconsin's Wounded Need Aid

100 Years Ago
Quoted from the Appleton Motor for June 5, 1862.

(From Gov. Edward Salomon's message delivered in June, 1862, to the Wisconsin senate and assembly.)

It has been a source of very great embarrassment to the Executive Department that no provisions have been made for the contingency which has arisen since your adjournment concerning the sick and wounded soldiers from our State.

Wisconsin has sent 24,000 into the field and a new regiment is being organized. As our army has advanced, a great many of our brave men have been wounded on the battlefield. Especially has this been the case in the Army of the Mississippi.

After the Battle of Pittsburgh Landing (Shiloh), my lamented predecessor (Gov. Louis P. Harvey, who drowned April 19, 1862, in the Tennessee River) went to the battlefield to aid and assist the wounded. What he so nobly commenced I have not hesitated to carry out so far as having those soldiers transported to their homes who had by him been sent down the Mississippi River.

Subsequently, when reliable reports reached me of the helpless condition of our sick soldiers along the Tennessee River, of the inadequate relief granted by the United States authorities, when a battle was hourly expected, I sent another commission under the charge of Commissary Gen. E. R. Wadsworth and Surgeon E. B. Woolcott to Pittsburgh Landing. The commission, consisting of gentlemen who volunteered their services saved the lives of many brave Wisconsin soldiers who were lying sick from the effects of the climate, and who would have died had they not been removed.

Since then all State aid has been excluded by the military authorities until after a battle. But in that event aid ought to be granted to those who fall wounded upon the field.

I trust that you will sanction what has been done and will speedily make provisions for future emergencies. The great and noble State of Wisconsin ought not to let her brave sons, who fight the battles of the Union, die for the want of attention.

The people, the poor, the sick and wounded soldiers look to the Executive for aid in such emergencies; but his hands are tied unless you will place at his disposal the necessary means. The expenses of such expeditions are necessarily large, notwithstanding the gratuitous services of

No More Butter

Soviet Arms, Missile Costs Getting Heavy

BY EDWIN A. LAHEY

Chicago Daily News Service

WASHINGTON — Some youngster in Moscow some day will ask his mother where the heck is the butter.

"So use lard," she will reply. "Your butter is in a hardened missile siter."

That seems to be the oversimplified version of news from the Soviet Union that the government is about to boost the cost of meat and butter high enough to affect the diet of its citizens.

The failure of Russian agriculture to meet its quotas has been news since early March, when Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev raised the issue before the Central Committee of the Soviet Communist Party.

But behind the production breakdown on the collective farm system is the story of the massive increase in Soviet defense expenditures. United States and the Soviet tell us we need umpty-billion dollars for defense and foreign aid to protect us against communism, and at the same time the depressed State Department — in an official directive — cautions against any reference to Russia as a world threat lest we upset peaceful negotiations with the Kremlin.

Forget Ammunition

Having triumphantly defended Laos by surrendering it, the schizos send troops to Thailand but forget to issue cartridges for a few days, obviously confusing the Marines with the Peace Corps.

They attack the profit system and create a panic that shrinks market values $31 billion in a week and then wonder why business is bad. Right after Mr. Kennedy announced he was going to help small business, the market dropped another 35 points — and you can't blame it, when you think of what that threat might imply.

My compliments to de Tocqueville and Huey, but I begin to think Grandpappy ought to be made head of the firm. If crazy isn't trump, what is? (Copyright 1962)

Union beefed up their military posture, their space race, and their nuclear testing as the cold war increased in tension last year.

Half of Budgets

In each country, defense expenditures are about half of the national budget.

In the United States, half of the budget represents about 10 per cent of the gross national product.

In the Soviet Union, half of the budget represents a lot more than 10 per cent of the gross national product.

In other words, the United States can stand the wasteful diversion of wealth into armaments better than the Soviet Union.

It never has been stated officially, but that is the essence of the "hard" U. S. line in the cold war. The Russians are bound to crumble under the load of armaments before we do.

Khrushchev has blamed the production failure in Russian agriculture on "mismanagement." The whole farm system was reorganized, and given the task of increasing the meat supply by 50 per cent in 1962, and the grain and milk supply by 20 per cent.

Costs Have Soared

The premier said that the reorganization in agriculture could be carried on without any major shift in the resources allocated to defense.

"Communism must not be regarded as a table set with empty plates around which sit high minded and fully equal people," he said.

Khrushchev, a peasant with reverence for the soil, could probably never swallow the line Adolf Hitler gave the Germans, that they must choose between guns and butter.

But military, space, and nuclear test spending has soared in Russia this year.

The Soviet government has the last word on every ruble invested in its own country, whether it should go into milking machines or missile sites.

And that butter is going to be missing from many tables in Russia when the impending price increases are announced.

Pioneer U. S. Family Moves to Australia

FORT MYERS, Fla. (AP)—A pioneer southwest Florida family, whose forebears migrated from England to the Carolinas to Florida, is taking another long step: to a cattle ranch in Australia. Asa Townsend, 56, head of the clan, said that he had sold his 4,640-acre ranch for nearly one million dollars and only the paper work remained. He said he and his wife and daughter and son-in-law plan to leave this summer. Three sons and their wives and children, and another daughter, said that he had sold her husband already have moved to Australia.

Townsend said he had asked $1,012,000 for his pastureland, 1,400 head of cattle, a 100-acre orange grove, tenant houses, horses, equipment, dogs, the family home and other farm and ranch equipment in Hendry County, 40 miles east of Fort Myers.

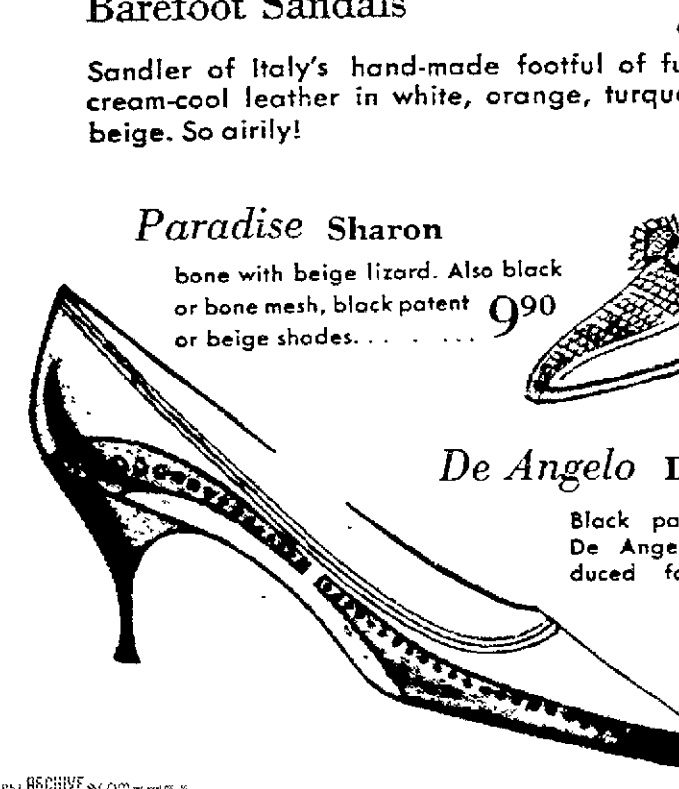

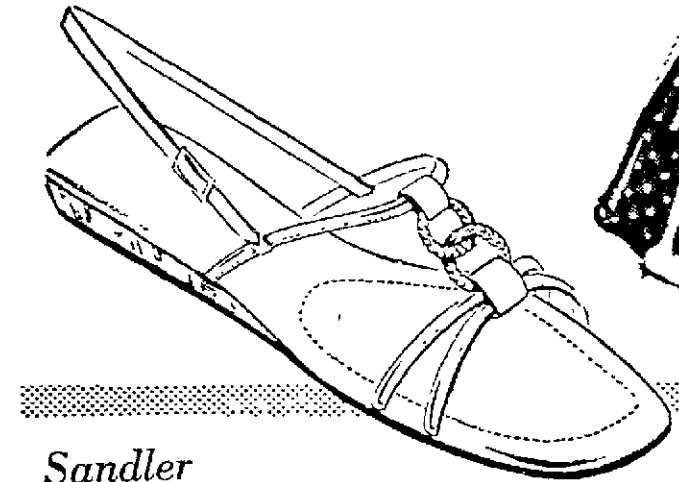

"I didn't quite get my price, but what I am getting is in cash," he said. The unofficial report was that the final agreement was for $800,000 in cash. In Australia, the Townsends have acquired 820 square miles of ranchland—524,800 acres—in the northern or tropical part of the continent. It's about 100 miles south of the port of Darwin. Such unoccupied tracts in Australia are owned by the government and are parceled out on a 99-year lease at rentals ranging from 50 cents to $15 per square mile annually. Future generations would have the right to renew leases. Need a Frontier "We are frontier people, and we need a new frontier for our children, their children and future generations," he said. "We think Australia offers the best in modern day frontiers, that the interior of the continent is about like the United States of 100 years ago." Ray, his wife and five children and his brother, Bob, and his wife and two children, sold their ranches and cattle last year and moved to Australia, leasing the big tract and building homes. They were joined shortly afterward by their sister and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Davis of La Belle, Fla. Davis gave up a partnership with his father in a department store to make the move. They have no children. To Become Citizens A third brother, Roy, and his wife, and five children, sold their cattle and flew to Australia two weeks ago. Another sister and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. F. Burchard of La Belle, plan to join the move soon. They have three children. Burchard is in the building business. Asa said the family planned to engage in cattle raising exclusively in Australia. He added that all members of the family plan to remain in Australia permanently and to become citizens. "We feel that wherever we live we should be a part of that community," he said.

Uzbeks Escape Life's Tedium In Small Parks

Amid Tree-Lined Walks, Khrushchev's Portraits Loom

BY GEORGE WELLER
Chicago Daily News Service
SARAKAND, Uzbekistan U.S.S.R.—To escape from the two-room flat, the two-burner gas stove, and the two-job routine of living, the slant-eyed Uzbeks go happily to the government's amusement place, Gorky Park.

Amid the tree-lined walks, the big portraits of the dominant Nikita Khrushchev faction, and the rides and fun houses, the Uzbek man and wife find their escape from tedium. Everybody goes to Gorky to escape — and meets everybody else doing the same thing.

Gorky Park is small, tight and crowded, unlike the great river parks beside the Volga and Dnieper in Western Russia. The atmosphere is subdued, but crowded. By 7 p.m. every seat on every bench is occupied, mostly by square-set, unescorted women in their 40s and 50s. The men in their lives fell at Smolensk or Stalingrad, or are working on the night shift at some plant.

Large Clean Hands
There they sit in rows, large clean hands resting in their laps, silently watching the Khrushchev generation, the girls in high hairdos and flaring skirts, with their young men in red and yellow shirts and black drainpipe trousers.

Nearly everybody is eating or drinking something: A sandwich with cubes of roasted lamb, an ice cream cone, a bottle of sirupy soda, pink or yellow.

The walkers and sitters are nearly all adults, but children have not been forgotten. All through the park are little parklets with swings, seesaws and sandboxes. The park offers a chance for children and groups.

Trees are whitewashed up to 10-foot level, making them look like cleanly sentinels. The grass, though worn by too many feet, is clean, for Soviet newspapers are small, and rarely thrown away.

Their Own Music
The sharp young crowd gathers at a swing band playing under a big sounding board on a hill.

Plenty of sax and trumpet, not much piano.

Down in the hollow, out of earshot, is a hemicycle of 400 seats where Uzbeks in little black skullcaps and baggy trousers listen to twinky violins and mandolins — their own music. A languid folk singer offers a nostalgic number every 15 minutes. It's not enthusiastic on the part of the performers, but it's free, and the farmers love it.

To advertise he shows here are no bakers: Only a booth selling tickets and a list of eight rules all customers must obey.

A big attraction is the high swinging cantilever ride on two-seater airplanes, swinging round and round, high and low. The price is 35 cents, which represents a half hour's work for a mechanic.

News From Moscow
The hall of funny mirrors — 11 cents a ticket — is almost deserted, and the lanky housewife in charge beckons in vain. Next door to her, however, the hired ping-pong tables, at the same price, are clicking away like mad.

Under a big wooden dome is a rotating saucer 40 feet wide — 10 cents a ride to be whirled around 50 times. A boy, the only customer, sits on the leather crown in the center, waiting.

At every crossing are white statues in the Soviet carved soap style, exactly the same as in Vladivostok or Riga. They show a young athlete leaping for a basketball, or a girl swinging a tennis racket.

The loudspeakers, high in the branches of the trees, play marches and operatic airs. Two minutes before each hour the music breaks off. A huge ticking, like an enormous heart, fills the air. Then, after four warning beeps, "the news from Moscow." At 11, the news quacks out as usual. But only the white trees are left as listeners.

Secretary Asks Change in Pool Plant Standards

A change in pool plant requirements has been recommended by the Secretary of Agriculture for the Northeastern Wisconsin Milk Marketing Order area.

The recommendation would lower the percentage of milk required to be handled by pool plants from the present 50 per cent to 40 per cent. Interested parties have five days in which to file exceptions with the Department of Agriculture.

The final decision is expected before July 1. Testimony on the proposed change was heard at a Federal hearing in Appleton May 16.

Drive Underfoot to Eliminate Low Enrollment High Schools

Post-Crescent Staff Writer
MADISON—The next big push in Wisconsin school reorganization will be to eliminate many of the very small high schools that have continued to operate in spite of the vast changes in the school district map of the last decade.

The signals have been given in periodical statements of the state department of public instruction in the last couple of legislative sessions. In the view of the state supervisors, there are too many low enrollment schools remaining—those of less than 150 pupils.

The state has no direct control over such schools, under present laws. But the state department has the power to withhold state aids when it feels there is an inadequate educational program. In a very small school with a very small staff, academic service is likely to be inferior without regard to the quality of the individual teachers, according to this view.

Since most of the tiny schools are in rural districts with comparatively low bases of tax valuation, the power to withhold aids is only slightly less formidable as a consolidation tool than the power to abolish outright.

Meanwhile, the swift change in the Wisconsin school map under the 1959 law which set a July 1, 1962 deadline, for the incorporation of all common school territory into an operating high school district is a miracle of Wisconsin public affairs, when viewed in perspective.

Nothing has been quite as difficult to resolve in the Wisconsin public services as the accommodation of the outgrown rural school map of the state to the reorganizations of the rapidly urbanizing state of the last half of the 20th century. When the 1959 act was adopted most legislators expected that they would be required to deal with its effective date. But they held fast, and now the reorganization that was dreamed about as far back as the regime of the late John Callahan in the state school department has been virtually achieved. After the beginning of next month, there will be fewer than 800 school districts in the state.

A decade ago there were 10 times that number.

When Jacob Friedrick of Milwaukee, a shy and humble man, was elected chairman of the University of Wisconsin board of regents recently, he showed his nervousness about the incident. In recognizing another regent for the first time, he nodded and

Confused Republican Supports Other Side

DOUGLAS, Ariz. (AP) — A Douglas businessman paid for his banquet ticket, then discovered he was in the wrong place. The cashier was gone and he couldn't get a refund.

The man said what troubled him was the fact the banquet was a Democratic fund raising affair. He was a Republican county leader.

combination of individual performers, rather than as a team.

There is very little chance that Gov. Nelson, running for U.S. senator, will do very much in direct collaboration with John Reynolds, running for the governorship.

Reynolds is closer to Democratic Chairman Patrick J. Lucey than Nelson ever was, and some of the reserve resulting from Nelson's unsuccessful bid of a year ago to get rid of Lucey as party chief fingers today and makes complete compatibility or close teamwork difficult to achieve. Chances are it won't be tried.

The Reynolds and Nelson drives may show, to the observant, divergent views on campaign strategy.

Reynolds has often said, and apparently believes, that Wisconsin is basically a Republican state. The people will vote for a Republican state government, unless they are offered a convincing excuse to do otherwise.

His attempt will be in the classical liberal Democratic mold, hitting the issues on civil rights, the liberal tax creed, labor legislation, business regulation and the rest that served so well the old LaFollette movement in which he was schooled.

Nelson, capitol observers are guessing, has examined his own career to date and come to some conclusions about the reasons why he has run stronger than has his party. He has managed to attract sizeable numbers of votes from persons who otherwise favored Republicans, on the official record. He is convinced that some of his essentially non-partisan works have accounted for it, as well as his usually bi-partisan utterances on the stump.

He is likely to continue that pace, and especially since in most current estimates he is held to be the strongest candidate of his party in the new struggle with the Republican opposition.

crushed. Four sailboats moored on Lake Winnebago tipped over. The Oshkosh police departments received 350 reports of storm damage.

Store Damaged
Parts of the roof at M and M Furniture Store, 1308 S. Commercial St., Neenah, were blown off and two large plate glass windows shattered. Firemen put tarps on the open holes in the roof and on some of the furniture in the store.

Damage estimated at $29,000 was experienced at Basler, Mobile Home Park in Omro as trailers tipped over. Three trailers were total losses.

Almost every street in Omro was blocked by fallen trees. The roofs were blown off of two downtown stores.

Mrs. Fred Dodencal, a resident of the trailer camp, suffered possible broken ribs and her daughter, Mrs. Dale Trelven, received cuts when a refrigerator in Mrs. Dodencal's trailer fell on them. About a dozen distress signals were reported on Lake Butte des Morts. One houseboat that had run aground was rescued. The rest of the boats made it back to their moorings or tied up along shore for the night.

Funnel Cloud
A funnel cloud, resembling a tornado, was spotted over Lake Butte des Morts by North Central Airlines. The cloud was a waterspout that never touched ground. It moved over Lake Winnebago and disappeared.

The roof of Traders Inc., 1075 Manitowoc Road, Menasha, was ripped off a storeroom and flew one block. Food and tavern merchandise and supplies were damaged.

Heavy Damage
The only reports of heavy damage Saturday night came from an area between Wittenberg and Wausau. Winds ran a gauntlet of destruction between Wittenberg and Wausau bringing down seven barns valued at $100,000. The city and the village avoided the brunt of the wind.

All of the barns were along a mile stretch of Shawano County Trunk N. Heaviest losses were felt by Oscar Lodholz, route 1, Schofield, whose four barns and one silo were razed. The garage of Lawrence Fut, route 1, Schofield, fell on two late model cars, wrecking them.

The high winds in that area were first felt at Kelly, eight miles east of Wausau, where they uprooted 20 pine trees, all 40 to 50 feet high. The wind hit at County Trunk N and disappeared.

Wittenberg had no power for 50 minutes between 7 and 8 p.m. Wausau was without electricity for several hours. A community TV antenna there was out of commission until 3 p.m. Sunday.

Most battered in Calumet County was the stretch along Lake Winnebago's east shore between Brotherton and a point south of Sherwood. The sheriff's office reported the lake shore was littered with smashed boats. Some piers were torn off their footings. Barn doors blew off in the Sherwood area.

Undersheriff C. J. Kosmosky spent the night tracing down calls by wives whose husbands had been on the lake fishing. He found all the husbands safe on shore.

Wisconsin Public Service Corp. called the storm in the county "one of the worst in years." The cottages along the lake shore were without electricity all night. Line crews went out at 7 p.m. and had most of the electric power restored by 8 a.m. today. Trees felled by wind and lightning accounted for most of the utility's trouble.

No Toll Service
The telephone lines were not so badly hurt. There was no toll service out of Chilton most of the night. That service was restored by 6:30 a.m. today.

The Grand Army Home, King, and the whole Chain O' Lakes area found itself without power for most of the night. A huge oak tree tore down two phases of a 7,200 volt line serving both places at the intersection of the back road to King and State 22.

Standby Power
The home did have electric power in its halls. The emergency room and the new Burs Clemens domiciliary infirmary were supplied by emergency generators. The home went to stand-by power to operate its water plant and feed its boilers. Four or five large trees were down on the home's grounds.

A five-man line crew worked until 2 a. m. to fix the line. Many telephone lines were out all night in the King area. In Wau-paca there was a power outage until 2 a. m. today in the Third Ward.

No Damage
Shawano County reported power outages due to felled trees. No damage was reported in the New London area.

Many streets in Oshkosh still were blocked this morning by downed trees and limbs. About 1,500 telephones that were out had been put back into service. About two-thirds of the 3,000 homes without power were restored this morning. Five line crews were brought in from Green Bay to help repair 200 downed wires. A dozen downed poles, six burned out transformers and 70 cases of limbs over wires.

Wisconsin Power and Light estimated 75 per cent of its customers in Omro and Winneconne were without power for a time. Some still were without power this morning.

Part of the island area in Menasha was without power when wind blew a branch over a 4,160-volt line and severed it. Electricity was out about 45 minutes. Another falling branch caused an outage in hot water heater circuits on the island. There were reports of one tree down and many fallen limbs.

Neenah police reported many lines down.

The Neenah police boat went out on a distress call received from the sheriff's office at 7:46 p. m. Sunday. Two boats were reported in trouble off Radford Island and Indian Point. Police were unable to see anything and returned to Neenah at 8:30 p. m. The police boat guided two outboard motor boats headed for Oshkosh into Neenah.

The Calumet County sheriff's boat appealed for help at 10:13 p. m. Sunday when a motor boat was reported in distress south of Brothertown. A Neenah police crew was readied but the call was cancelled at 10:22 p. m. when the boat was on shore.

Oconto County
Winds of tornado velocity whipped across the northeastern boundary of Oconto County early Sunday morning.

The high winds descended at 2:50 a.m. Sunday morning from the west and tore apart a wooden barn.

When the winds hit, the barn burst, scattering timber from the sides and roof as far as 400 feet.

prospect, as are some members of the legislature whose political situations would be radically disturbed, but the legislature is under the strongest compulsion to follow the constitutional mandate on reapportionment, nevertheless. About half of the legislative districts of the state will be changed in some degree, causing considerable confusion on the eve of a new statewide election.

Difficult Problem
Nelson acknowledged the outlook in his message and said he is aware "how difficult it is for legislators to vote on matters which adversely affect their colleagues, pit friend against friend, and force other associates into unfamiliar territories."

But he said the constitutional requirement, now backed up with the threat of federal court reapportionment action, is clear and the lawmakers have no alternative.

Nelson warned that the legislation must be fair and equitable. "It is the public interest at stake here, not the personal, private or partisan interests of any individual or political party. All too often in the past both political parties here and in other states have sought political advantage by gerrymandering districts or by failure to apportion at all. If the apportionment passed is not fair and equitable I will veto it. The federal court will then protect the public interest by putting into effect an apportionment in compliance with our constitution."

Soldiers Guard the Entrance to the civil aviation building in Algiers today after it was heavily damaged by an 80-pound charge of explosives by secret army commandos.

Can't Satisfy Everyone
Nelson also told the lawmakers that the public will be impatient about prolonged wrangling "at the taxpayers' expense."

He said the legislative council plan is not perfect, but warned that if the legislature "must satisfy every whim or objection there will be no bill at all. Time is of the essence if we are to do the job instead of the federal court."

He recalled that the council bill, generally ignored when the legislature was in regular session last year, was drafted by a bipartisan study commission of 15 members, including leading private citizens.

He added that everyone is familiar with that group's proposal and that therefore there should be no delay in bringing the issue to vote. He said a hearing could be held Thursday and a vote on Friday. Republican legislative leaders have expressed doubts that such speedy action is desirable or possible.

Major Shifts
The last Wisconsin reapportionment of the legislature was in 1953 and Nelson said that act put Wisconsin ahead of all other states in the accuracy of its representation, but the succeeding decade brought large population shifts reflecting the continued urbanization of the state, requiring adjustments now.

The ideal Wisconsin Assembly district would have slightly under 40,000 residents. Today there are five districts with less than 25,000 people, seven with more than 60,000, two of more than 80,000, and the range is from 20,000 to 87,000. The last reapportionment of Congressional districts was in 1931. An ideal apportionment would have districts of 400,000 persons each. Today, Nelson said, the smallest district has less than 237,000 people, and the largest has more than 530,000.

The governor urged that election laws be amended temporarily to provide for the circulation of nomination papers in the proposed new districts as he acknowledged that there will result some confusion in the minds of the public.

"The voters in those districts which will be changed significant-the Republican majorities in both houses would be friendly to such a plan. They believe also that they can push such an alternative without legitimate criticism, if they simultaneously enact a new population districting law while awaiting the outcome of the constitutional amendment process.

The ultimate fate of such an area representation plan is doubtful. It failed of enactment in spite of an ardent campaign nearly a decade ago, and the state has continued the urbanization process rapidly in the intervening years. The presumption is that relatively few non-rural voters would endorse such a system.

Ultimatum Protested
Atty. Gen. John Reynolds, who pressed the federal suit for redistricting, followed Nelson's directive with an ultimatum that brought the strongest protests from the GOP.

Reynolds, a Democratic candidate for governor, told the lawmakers he expected action on reapportionment to be completed by ly will have only limited time to acquaint themselves with new candidates. All this, of course, creates difficulties but they are not insurmountable. The overriding fact is that the job of reapportionment must be done, and done right now," Nelson said.

Sen. Jerris Leonard, R-Milwaukee, said the GOP majority had gained the required number of signatures on a petition to call the Legislature into a recess session. This maneuver would give Republicans the say-so over legislative action during the lawmakers' time in Madison.

"Since we're technically in session until January, it's not clear that Nelson has authority to call us back," Leonard said. "If we make it a recessed session there's no doubt about the constitutionality of our meeting or the constitutionality of our acting on reapportionment."

next Monday. He added that if his deadline was not met, he would ask the federal panel to name a special master and go ahead with its own redistricting. Republicans labeled the ultimatum "sheer political grandstanding."

In a statement issued Sunday, Senate, and Assembly Speaker David Blanchard, R-Edgerton, said the Republican majority would not be bound by Reynolds' deadline.

The GOP leaders said reapportionment bills would be introduced today and Tuesday, but that floor debate on them would have to await public hearings. Every effort would be made, they said, to hold such hearings the first of next week.

AMA Assault Turns Tide Against Medicare

doctor is more than a person who cares for his health. He is a friend, and counselor, a man to whom the patient trusts not only his innermost thoughts but also his life.

A patient is not likely to treat lightly his physician's thoughts on anything.

It is significant to note that most congressmen also have personal physicians and the AMA has seen to it that they make their views known.

The willingness of doctors to hit the streets has been the biggest source of satisfaction at AMA headquarters.

Coming of Age
Leo Brown, assistant to the executive director, believes 1962 will be recorded as the year the American physician came of age in his awareness of his individual responsibility to head off the drive toward what the AMA believes would become government-controlled medicine.

In previous campaigns, the battles were waged by a few leaders with the rank and file content to sit on the sidelines and pay whatever funds were needed. In 1948, when President Truman insisted on passage of the Wagner-Murray-Dingell Bill calling for compulsory insurance, the AMA hired a public relations team at $100,000 a year and assessed each doctor $25 to raise a potential $3,500,000 war chest.

In 1958, the issue was the Forand Bill and again a massive advertising campaign under professional consultation was used to defeat it.

Homegrown Talent
But this time homegrown talent at AMA headquarters directed the drive.

"After all, we've been through a few campaigns and we've learned a little," explained Dr. Howard.

He insisted the AMA could not have done it without the assistance of many other non-medical associations who believed, as the AMA, that what's good for medicine is good for the country.

One of the most telling weapons has been Howard's task force, a minute-man committee equipped to shoot fast in answering critics and combating threatening developments.

Able Committeemen
Other members of the committee are C. Joseph Stetler, 45, general AMA counsel and formerly a lawyer with the Social Security Administration; Jim Reed, 48, former editor of the Topeka Daily Capital, head of the communications division; Aubrey Gates, 58, a former agricultural leader, head of the field service division; and Brown, 48, a former school teachers, coach and Medical Society executive.

'New' Kennedy Idea Rejected In FDR Days

Audit Proposal Aimed at Showing Less of a Deficit

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—President Kennedy may not have realized it, but some of the "new" and "sophisticated" ideas he expounded in his address last week at Yale University are throwbacks to proposals made and rejected in the 1930's.

The President perhaps decided anyway to advocate the changes in the system of auditing the government's expense and income which President Franklin D. Roosevelt and his "brain trust" sponsored. The scheme is to list only a part of the government's annual outlay as "expenses" and to set up a lot of inventories and properties as "investments" or capital assets. The purpose, of course, is to show less of a deficit, if not a surplus, in the principal statement of finances that gets public attention. Such a change, it is argued, would be more like the methods of private business.

Daniel W. Bell, who was director of the budget for several years, beginning in 1935, and who now is head of the American Security & Trust Company here, fought vigorously against the idea as unsound, and Congress didn't warm up to it either.

Again, in the early days of the Eisenhower Administration, the plan received a big boost from Beardsley Ruml, who was finance chairman of Adlai Stevenson's presidential campaign in 1952 and who had gained fame in championing the present "pay-as-you-go" system of paying income taxes. But even Mr. Ruml didn't claim that the "capital budget" idea was original. He said to the House Ways and Means Committee on Aug. 12, 1953:

"This change has been recommended for years by students, organizations, and government agencies."

President Kennedy in his speech at Yale denounced the present method of presenting the annual budget to the country as a "myth." He said:

"For the great enemy of the truth is very often not the lie—deliberate, contrived and dishonest—but the myth—persistent, persuasive and unrealistic."

"Fiscal Myths"

Turning to what he called "fiscal myths," Mr. Kennedy said: "We persist in measuring our federal fiscal integrity today by the conventional, or administrative, budget with results which would be regarded as absurd in any business firm, in any country of Europe, or in any careful assessment of the reality of our national finances."

"The administrative budget has sound administrative uses. But for wider purposes it is less helpful. It omits our special trust funds and the effect they have on our economy. It neglects changes in assets or inventories. It cannot tell a loan from a straight expenditure. And worst of all it cannot distinguish between operating expenditures and long-term investments."

The President may not be aware of it, but those very points were made in the 1930's. He said in his Yale speech that some of the things he had been hearing recently around the country "sound like old records, long-playing, left over from the middle thirties" and that these "took place in a different world with different needs and different tasks."

Same as Today

But Mr. Kennedy may not know that the objective of the "capital budget" plan in the 1930's was exactly the same as he has in mind today — to get rid of the bad word "deficit" and to make a better political impression. Sometimes the "capital assets" on the books prove to be a myth.

Thus, the true deficit of the Republic, the senator said, to classify a construction Finance Corporation Polaris-bearing submarine or a missile base as an "investment" in 1932 — was not generally known for many years, but finally $2.8 billion had to be added to the public debt.

This writer the other day asked Sen. Harry Byrd, Democrat of Virginia, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, what he thought of the "capital budget" scheme. Sen. Byrd said: "I am opposed to it. I think it's fantastic to try to take all the capital outlay and outright investments by the government in buildings and construction and appropriations for defense equipment and not charge them to regular expenditures. You would never know where you stood. It's just a way to cover up real deficits. We must not try to fool the people."

It would be hard, for instance, Millan, head of the Conservative

Clinical Laboratory Plays Major Role in Saving Lives

Technologists Search Causes Of Disease at St. Elizabeth

BY JAY REED
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

The scientific direction of St. Elizabeth Hospital centers in a suite of rooms on the lower floor level called the Clinical Laboratory.

Here in aseptic surroundings of test tubes, microscopes, tiny glass slides and a multitude of other precision equipment, skilled technicians seek out the "bugs" which plague the human machine causing it to sputter and malfunction.

And here too, progresses a continuing program of assistance in vital cancer and heart research.

Second of a Series

work in bacteriology, hematology, chemistry, serology, blood banking and clinical microscopy.

Laboratory pathologists and technologists are being called upon more and more frequently to conduct highly specialized tests the results of which add to a physician's ability to diagnose and subsequently treat complicated cases.

The pathologist, for instance, is often called to the operating room in certain surgical cases to examine tissue and render an immediate diagnosis. This enables the surgeon to know at the moment precisely what he is dealing with and he can pursue the proper medical course immediately.

The autopsy is a major function of the clinical laboratory pathologist. Last year, such examinations were conducted in 44 percent of the in-patient deaths. These examinations produce valuable information which enable physicians to confirm their diagnosis and learn facts which help in the treatment of others.

Particularly in cancer cases, the evidence discovered during autopsy is added to the accumulated store of knowledge already gained, and, thus, St. Elizabeth plays its part in the ever-growing national program of cancer research.

The laboratory also has what it calls a tumor registry in which every cancer case in the country is logged. Follow-up studies are made in each case and the diagnosis, treatment and resulting activities are recorded.

The laboratory's testing facilities play an immense role in the treatment of heart patients. A

Many heart patients are put on drugs designed to eliminate blood clotting. Laboratory testing determines quickly and accurately how much of the drugs can be safely administered to the patient.

The Community Blood Bank plays a key role in the function of St. Elizabeth's clinical laboratory. Precise systems of cross matching are employed to eliminate any margin for error in providing transfusions.

St. Elizabeth and other area hospitals have a reciprocal agreement whereby if a certain type of blood is needed and one hospital has it while the other needs it does not have it, the blood is exchanged, usually by police emergency vehicle.

The educational requirements for medical technologists have been raised in recent years to the point where the technologist must have three years of college and one year of training in an approved hospital.

There is a painful shortage of these skilled workers but St. Elizabeth is fortunate in having five employees with the skilled ranking of MT (ASCP), or American Society of Clinical Pathologists.

heart attack victim, for instance, may not display the classic symptoms such as chest and arm pains. He may be experiencing severe stomach pains. The early diagnosis is not always clear and, in the early stages, an electrocardiogram is not always helpful.

Tests developed in the last five years deal with elevations in enzyme levels in the blood which are indicative of a heart attack. Such tests are run in the laboratory, thus determining immediately if the patient with abdominal pains is a surgical or heart case.

Canadian Town Hopes To Rebuild Past

NIAGARA-ON-THE-LAKE, Ont. (AP) — Several groups in this town at the mouth of the Niagara River on Lake Ontario want to restore certain areas to their 18th and 19th Century appearance.

The town, burned by Americans during the War of 1812, was rebuilt. Many of its existing structures date from the early 19th Century and others pre-date the 1813 attack.

All buildings in town are being surveyed and details of their history are being gathered. Niagara-on-the-Lake is considered to have some of the finest colonial architecture to be seen in Canada.

South Viet Nam Shows Signs Of Strength

National Emergency Measures Counteract Air of Suspicion

BY EDWIN Q. WHITE

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP) — A kind of unhappy laughter fills the hot nights as South Viet Nam pursues its war.

The nation fights in an atmosphere of rumor and suspicion. It is governed by a strict state of national emergency. President Ngo Dinh Diem's officials concede that ideal democratic processes do not prevail. These officials say the government must have time, that the war against the Communist Viet Cong must be won while economic, social and political reforms are introduced.

Viet Nam fights, too, amid an atmosphere of anxiety over what may happen in neighboring Laos, an area that provides a corridor for Communist attacks on South Viet Nam.

More Strength

The American forces that went into Thailand, setting up a line against any advance into that kingdom from Laos bases, brought something less than wild enthusiasm from Vietnamese officials and the government-line press. They welcomed the action, but called for a stronger U.S. stand in Laos itself. Such a stand is regarded here as important in the fight against Communist encroachment in Southeast Asia.

Viet Nam's own campaign against the patient, Communist-led enemy seems to be gaining increased effectiveness, thanks in part to 6,000 U.S. troops who are helping out.

New programs have started, such as the strategic hamlet plan aimed at getting village people to fight to protect themselves. Efforts are being made to improve communications and transport. Helicopters and other aircraft are being used in growing numbers to link remote mountains, marshy delta areas and jungles.

Morality Laws

While this side of the war is being fought, Viet Nam moves in other areas. A measure called the protection of morality bill outlaws dancing, professional boxing and beauty contests. Curtained windows are opened and bright lights go on in bars and cabarets.

All this, it is said, is part of a drive to make South Viet Nam a strong, healthy society with an efficient military force able to survive and win against Communist subversion.

U.S. officials stationed here and those who visit this country agree, publicly at least, that headway has been made. Vietnamese military efficiency is improving. Troops are better able to withstand attack and carry the fight to the Viet Cong.

While cautious optimism is the overworked descriptive used to sum up the outlook here, no one sees any hope of a fast or easy solution. American officials at all levels talk of a struggle in terms

Make Insect Display Case From Cardboard Cake Box

BY CAPPY DICK

A good display case in which to exhibit a small collection of butterflies, beetles and moths can be made from a cardboard cake or cookie box that has a plastic "window" in its top. Figure 1 shows such a box. Bakeries often use them and paper napkins are sometimes sold in them.

A cardboard cake or cookie box with a plastic "window" in its top makes a good display case for butterflies, beetles and moths.

Line the inside of the box with fancy gift paper as Figure 3. A thin coat of paste will hold the paper in place. Line both the bottom and the sides.

Any printing on the outside of the box can be hidden by applying one or two coats of gold or silver paint (Figure 3).

After they are dead, mount the insects inside the box with ordinary pins.

To add interest to your collection, it is a good idea to learn the identity of each butterfly, moth, beetle or other insect and print the name of each specimen on a slip of paper which can be glued beside it in the box.

When the lid of the box has been closed, the contents will be visible through the plastic window. The closed box will keep the exhibit in good order and free of dust that probably would collect on the specimens if they were left in the open.

The specimens should be arranged neatly in the box and should not be crowded. If you have too many for one display, prepare another box for the additional specimens.

Can't Burn Moth, So He Burns Himself

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Ray Dunn, 36, of Tucson, tangled with a small moth and lost.

Dunn had a cigarette in his hand when he attempted to smash the moth flying around inside his car. The motorist burned his hand, dropped the cigarette in his lap, attempted to snuff it out, side-swiped the side of an underpass and finally came to a halt. The moth escaped.

Lightning Starts Fire In Neenah Dress Shop

NEENAH — Firemen were called to Jeffery's Women's Apparel Store, 133 W. Wisconsin Ave., Neenah, at 1:44 a.m. today when lightning hit the store's neon sign and ignited the area between the false ceiling over the store and the second floor.

WHO IS THIS MAN RENK?

WILBUR RENK'S record as a public servant and Republican is outstanding!

WILBUR RENK spearheaded the drive on the University of Wisconsin Board of Regents for the two-county effort of the Fox Valley Extension Center. This higher education facility is one of the most modern of its kind. It is of great benefit to our young people who will be our future industrial and civic leaders.

WILBUR RENK has demonstrated his ability as a successful businessman. He is the former director of the Wisconsin State Chamber of Commerce. He is known throughout the Midwest as a highly-regarded and successful farm leader.

WILBUR RENK commands admiration and respect as a Republican. He was Chairman of the Wisconsin Citizens for Eisenhower Committee. He was elected by the GOP voters of our State to the Republican National Convention. He is a man of stature whose personality invites confidence with the rank and file voters. He is an effective spokesman of Republican ideals and principles.

WILBUR RENK'S courage for running in the Primary without endorsement exemplifies the kind of courageous leadership we need in the State House today. The voters are entitled to a choice!

WE BELIEVE RENK is a good choice, one of the best on the ballot in a long time. Help us support RENK FOR GOVERNOR. Get in touch with John Bubolz, a member of the Renk for Governor State Central Committee. Phone: RE 4-1723 or RE 9-3161.

BY LOUISE DAVIS

NO REPLY NECESSARY

There was recently a golden wedding anniversary Open House celebrated by relatives. The invitations contained no request for a reply, so we did nothing about it.

We did attend the party. Now we are being severely criticized by members of the family for not sending our acceptance. Was I correct?

Louise Davis Answers: Yes. If those giving the Open House wished to know how many of their invited guests were attending, they should have included an R.S.V.P. or a Please Reply. For an Open House, one normally figures on about 80% of the number of people on the invitation list.

Refreshments for an Open House are in a different category than those for a buffet dinner or sit-down dinner in which case a hostess would obviously wish to know exactly how many are coming. If she figures on the 80%, the planning and ordering of such things as punch, sandwiches, canapés, cakes is simple. She wouldn't have to be so exact. It is simpler to compute that way than to be concerned at the last minute about thoughtless friends who neglected to acknowledge.

Who buys the boy's boutonniere for his lapel when he attends a formal or semi formal dance? I always thought the girl did but a friend just told me she doesn't!

Louise Davis Answers: The boy provides his own boutonniere. (Lafave Newspaper Features)

Clean Linens For New Home

Moving day plans should include a box marked "clean linens for tonight" — packed with enough sheets and pillow cases to make up fresh beds the first night in your new home or summer cottage.

After a tiring moving day, the whole family deserves a good sleep between spanking clean sheets. Don't take a chance on discovering at midnight that all the bedding is packed in a trunk for which nobody has the key!

Your Problems

10 Year Old Has Hard Time Matching Cousin's Behavior

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am 10 years old and love my parents very much. I hope they love me but I am not sure. Sometimes they act like they do and sometimes they act like they don't.

I have some cousins and my father thinks they are angels. Especially my cousin Gregory who is one year older than I am. Whenever I do something that isn't perfect my father says he bets Gregory would not do that.

I want my folks to like me because I have to live here for another 11 years at least. Can you print some advice for me like you do for older people so my father will like me better?

I sure do thank you. —Charles

Dear Charles: I'll bet your father wouldn't trade you for all the Gregorys in the world. He just thinks Gregory is so great because he sees him when he's on his best behavior.

Here is a poem. I hope you will tear it out of the paper and hand it to your dad. The person who wrote it calls herage.

"Zoa":
Fathers are large people,
Who frequently declare
That "other children" eat their meals
And sit straight in a chair.
"Other children" wash their hands
According to my father.
They never yell, or lose their hats,
Or fight, or be a bother.

"Other children," Father says,
Speak when they are spoken to.

They answer "please" and "thank you".

The way I'm supposed to do. I'm sorry for my father, just as sorry as can be.

He knows such lovely children. And then got stuck with me. DEAR ANN LANDERS: Tom is a non-smoker. His first wife smoked heavily and it was a source of irritation to him. The argument which finally led him to divorce her was over cigarette butts.

Before we married I promised Tom I'd stop smoking, but I can't seem to get around to it. He didn't say much for a while but lately he has become irritable and sarcastic.

This is my first marriage and I didn't know husbands could be so bossy. We've been married less than a year and are forever quarreling. How can I make Tom see that he is unreasonable to expect me to break a habit I've had for 15 years? Please say something in your column about this. I need help. — Lover of Freedom

Dear Lover: Too bad your husband didn't insist that you quit smoking before he married you. It may have been the incentive you needed to help give up those coffin nails. You're going to have a rough time now that you already have the guy.

Experts in the field of human relations say men who remarry after divorce have a tendency to repeat the same mistakes. Perhaps this information will help you get off Tobacco Road.

To learn the booby-traps of teen-age drinking, write for Ann Landers' booklet, "Teen-age Drinking," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope. (Copyright 1962)

SEAMS TO ME

By Patricia Scott

How to Join Skirt, Top

A bodice and a skirt can be joined in various ways. The method of you use depends upon the style of the two sections and also upon the finished effect you wish to achieve.

If your bodice has fullness, such as gathering instead of darts, and the skirt is smooth at the waistline, you'll want to place the skirt over the bodice, as in Figure 1. Turn under the seam allowance of the skirt waistline and pin it over the waistline of the bodice, matching side seams, notches, center front and center back. Slip-baste them together, turn to the wrong side and stitch. Press the seam allowances down toward the skirt. You might find it easier to press the skirt seam allowance after you turn it under, and before you pin it to the bodice, but first be sure it fits properly.

If your skirt has gathers or pleats, and the bodice is smooth with darts, you should place the bodice over the skirt. Turn under the seam allowance of the bodice waistline; and place the bodice over the skirt waistline, matching all seams and notches. If gathers on the skirt are not adjusted properly to fit the bodice perfectly, do this before pinning them together. Pin the bodice to the skirt and slip-baste. Turn to the wrong side and stitch. Press the seam allowances up toward the bodice. (Figure 2.)

Figure 3 illustrates the joining of a skirt and bodice from the inside, no matter what may be the style. This method of inside stitching, I think, should be used on all dresses, whether they are your best, or just inexpensive ones for house wear. However, some women prefer the top-stitched waistline for faster sewing on house dresses, and I'll describe this below. The diagram shows how all seams and notches are matched. You can pin, baste and stitch all on the wrong side, as shown here. Or, you can slip-baste first on the right side (this is much more accurate, and advisable when working on delicate fabrics) and stitch on the wrong side.

The top-stitched waistline is not illustrated. You just pin and baste the bodice to the skirt on the right side. Then top stitch them together, stitching close to the fold.

ed edge of either the bodice or skirt, depending on whether you placed the bodice over the skirt, or the skirt over the bodice. If you use this method, the dress should have a belt to cover the stitching.

A finishing hint for fabrics that stretch is to stitch the seam binding to the waistline seam. Or, if you prefer, use grosgrain ribbon, tacking it by hand to the waistline at intervals. Add a hook and eye at each end, making it an inside belt, which is hooked closed before you close your zipper placket.

How are Blind Tapes Cleaned?

BY ROGER C. WHITMAN.

Q: We have flat rubber stair treads on the stairs to the attic. The front edge on several of these repeatedly gets kicked loose. How can they be permanently fastened down? Ordinary tacks are of no avail.

A: Metal stair tread nosing strips should be used to fasten down the edge of stair treads. These are available at large hardware stores, and floor covering dealers.

Scratched Plastic Tile

Q: Some of the plastic tiles over our bathtub have become scratched-looking. Is there any way to remove these fine scratches and restore the luster of the tiles?

A: Try rubbing the scratched tiles with powdered pumice and a damp felt pad. When the scratches disappear, polish the tiles with powdered chalk and a damp soft cloth.

Grease Spots on Hearth

Q: During the winter, several times we used our indoor fireplace as a barbecue. As a result there are a number of grease spots from cooking meat. How can these be removed from the stone hearth?

A: Try using one of the oven-cleaning preparations for removing grease, etc., widely available at supermarkets, hardware and housewares dealers; follow label directions. Or make a thick paste of a nonflammable liquid spot remover and powdered whiting or other absorbent powder and cover the grease spots with a thick layer; place a sheet of thin plastic over the top to retard evaporation; when paste becomes discolored, replace with fresh, until no more grease is absorbed.

Soiled Venetian Blind Tapes

Q: The tapes on the Venetian blind in our dining alcove, right off the kitchen, are very soiled and dingy looking. How can they be cleaned?

A: The easiest method, probably, would be to replace the tapes with new ones; replacement tapes, easily installed, are widely available at variety, housewares and hardware stores. Or try one of the upholstery cleaning preparations available at the same sources as the replacement tapes, following label instructions carefully.

Lawn Improvement

Q: We moved into our new home more than a year ago and are not satisfied with the way the lawn looks. Where can we get information on improving its appearance?

A: Large garden supply houses and nurseries usually have this type of information available. The following leaflets on the subject are available from the Superintendent of Documents, Washington 25, D.C. (payment must accompany orders; no stamps): No. A177-51, "Better Lawns, Establishments, Maintenance, Renovation, Lawn Problems, Grasses" (15 cents); "Lawn Insects, How to Control Them" No. 177-53 (15 cents).

Restoring Cedar Chest Color

Q: The unfinished cedar chest we have been using for years for storing wool blankets, etc., has darkened considerably. The outside wood has never had any special kind of treatment or finish other than the usual cleaning and waxing. Is there any way to restore the original cedar color?

A: The oxidized and soiled wood surface can be removed by rubbing with "OO" sandpaper, wrapped around a block of wood, or with a portable electric sander. Rub with "OOOO" sandpaper to a satin-smooth finish. Wipe off dust with turpentine. Then finish with pure, fresh, white shellac, thinned half-and-half with denatured alcohol, or a water-clear varnish.

Looking on are Mrs. Joseph Shiff, assistant treasurer, Mrs. Mary Millstein, second vice-president, and Mrs. Dennis Bacall, first vice-president. A dessert was served before the installation ceremony.

PET DOCTOR

By A. W. Moller, D.V.M.

Q. Do you think it is right to put nail polish on a dog's toenails? Barbara Speiser, Washington, D.C.

A. Yes, I do. Then the owner will give special attention to the dog's nails. Seeing that they are well manicured—that is, cut regularly and filed down smooth—will help prevent the house dog from scratching things and people. Applying nail polish to the nails of Poodles, White-haired Terriers and similar companions of mi-lady, in my opinion, enhances their beauty. It may do nothing to improve their general health, but neither do clothes, bows or jewelry. However, one word of warning. Use a good quality nail polish and don't let the dog lick it until it is dry and ready for the promenade.

Making Over Husband Futile Job for Wife

BY VIVIAN BROWN

"Let your husband be an individual instead of reminding him that all the other men do this or that better," pretty, blonde actress Barbara Eden advises young brides.

Start out on the right foot, she says. The psychology of trying to make over your husband like your friend's husband is all wrong. She has been married four years.

to actor-artist Michael Ansara. "Most men like to cook occasionally, but not Mike. He hates to barbecue and won't go near the kitchen, so why should I insist," she says.

"You've got to take a mature outlook toward marriage. A wife should give 100 per cent, not 50 per cent as many newlyweds seem to think. It's the wife who must keep the marriage on an even keel. Keep trying to remember why you fell in love with your husband, rather than thinking up ways to make him over."

Barbara cooks dinner every evening no matter how tired she is, except when they go out to eat.

Tolerates Shortcomings. It's a wife's duty to tolerate shortcomings in her husband's life, instead of criticizing him for not being perfect, she says.

"I keep the heels on Mike's shoes in condition, and even see that his shoes are shined. He'd never wear two socks that matched unless I checked to make sure. I go with him too, when he buys a suit. I don't think salesmen like it, but if I didn't go with him, he wouldn't go at all." Although Mike is an actor and should be fastidious, she says, it's the artist in him that has the upper hand. He enjoys being casual in dress.

Shop Together. "He likes me to shop with him, and he shops with me, often buying me clothes as a surprise."

"We pamper each other, and I pamper him a good deal. Men love it and will return your thoughtfulness. I pick up little gifts for him when I go shopping—a tie, handkerchiefs, tie clasp. We do special gifts on Valentine's Day and birthdays and even at Easter we hide baskets from each other like a couple of kids," she says.

Barbara sees all the best in Mike, even his heard which is "simply elegant and magnificent" and ideal for his 6 foot 4 frame. "He cuts it close, sort of to a point that is very chic," she says.

Dog Moved Out. One wifely pill that Barbara did swallow though was that Mike believes in dog houses, a shock to her poodle Maggie, who now resides in the backyard. Mike likes big dogs like the German shepherd Gregory Peck gave him.

"It took Mike longer to adjust to Maggie than it did for Maggie to adjust to her new home," Barbara says. She has just completed "The Wonderful World of Brothers Grimm," and says:

"No matter how hard I work, I keep up everything at home. It is more difficult for people in party will be held Dec. 12 at the home of Mrs. Frank J. Blick, 725 N. Mason St.

Wash 'n Wear Is Not New

The evolution of the wash-wear summer suit dates back to about 1855, when men considered themselves "dashing" in suits nankin or some similar cotton fabric in greyish yellow. A gay tie and a buttonhole flower were the only splashes of color permitted. Pity the poor slaves who had

Bad Golfer? Could be Your Feet

Next time you miss a short putt on the sixth hole by inches, it could really be a matter of feet — your own.

That's what Dr. Benjamin Kauth, a leading podiatrist, suggests in his new book, "Walk and Be Happy."

Of general interest to anyone who has ever said, "Ouch, my aching feet" — a painful phrase echoed by millions of Americans yearly — the foot specialist's helpful hints should be of particular interest to golfers and other outdoor folk.

In his advice to free-swinging lady golfers and their escorts, the doctor says that "a corn can cause foot imbalance that distorts the swing." This carries over to all active sports, where balance and unbridled footwork are essential to proper form and coordination.

Reduce Stiffness. But to concentrate on golf: "Haltus rigidus" — stiffness or rigidity at the big toe joint — often is responsible for a disastrous lack of follow-through," says Dr. Kauth. "This is readily corrected by toe-pulling exercise," he recommends. Should you indulge? Depends on how badly you want to shave strokes from your score.

Dr. Kauth, a week-end golfer himself, advises sportsmen and sportswomen to pay as close attention to selecting their golf shoes as to choosing a set of matched clubs. In golf shoes, or in any other type of footwear, nothing beats shoes with supple, lightweight uppers and tough, flexible leather soles. Built-in waterproofing in the leather, sole keeps feet dry when you tee off on a misty morning.

Leather Breathes. Contributing to foot comfort on the fairway, in the rough and on the putting greens, according to the prominent podiatrist, is the leather shoe's natural ability to "breathe". Because of the fibrous structure of the leather, air comes right through the sides of the shoe to keep feet cool and perspiration-free.

The doctor also offers some advice to women golfers. He agrees that it is "unreasonable" to ban high heels on the greens. For women golfers who are uncomfortable in regulation low shoes, he recommends special exercises and lifts inside the shoe to help adjust calf muscles to a long stretch in flats. For the lady whose "legs look best in nylons," Dr. Kauth suggests stockings with cotton feet to help keep feet dry like daily soap-and-water washing.

Range Decides Quality of Cook

A good cook doesn't wait until her range expires from old age before replacing it. One of the most important and often-used appliances, a range must have accurate, automatic controls if nutritious, tasty meals are to be prepared with minimum effort and maximum success. Modern electric ranges, designed with many useful innovations such as instant heat and accurate controls, out-cook their predecessors in every respect. They have constant, controlled temperatures ranging from barely warm to broil and are so automatic they can book complete meals to perfection while the homemaker is long out of the house.

Skin Care

Nothing clears the complexion like daily soap-and-water washing.

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

New York, N. Y. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain — without surgery. In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by a doctor's observations. Pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place. And most amazing of all — this improvement was maintained in cases where a doctor's observations were continued over a period of many months! In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' standing. All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®) — the discovery of a world-famous research institution. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body. This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H®. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug counters.

WHAT'S THE BEST CURE FOR "THE BLUES"? YOUR OPINION.

Accepting yourself as you are is the best cure for the blues. Writer Aldous Huxley has a character in his book, "Brave New World," who says, "I'd rather be myself, myself and nasty. Not someone else, however jolly." This is more healthful, for example, than taking a pill to get over the blues. The only effective help is through facing your own reality and learning to live with yourself and life as they really are. ## Swimming Lessons Scheduled for 1,075

Red Cross Course Designed to Aid Youths Through Pool Instruction

The Outagamie County Chapter of the Red Cross will help about 1,075 children learn to swim this summer.

Through a program of mass co-operation, it has grouped these children, all over eight years old, into classes at four Fox Cities area swimming pools. Qualified Red Cross instructors will teach basic swimming skills and water safety.

The pools involved are Erb and Meade park pools in Appleton, the Kaukauna Municipal Pool and Larry's Pool in Hortonville.

Hortonville Class
Each child will receive 12 straight hours of instructions. There will be 100 per class at all but the Hortonville pool. There classes will number 40.

At the Appleton and Kaukauna pools, there will be three scheduled classes during the summer. The first starts Monday and runs through June 30. The second starts July 5 and continues to July 18 and the third begins July 23 and ends Aug. 4.

At Appleton classes will run from 8:50 to 9:50 a.m. At Kaukauna classes will be from 8:45 to 9:45 a.m.

At the Hortonville pool, there will be two schedules of classes, one starting Tuesday and running through July 10 and one starting July 17 and running through Aug. 3. Hortonville classes will be from 10 to 11 a.m.

Four Categories
None of these class hours interfere with swimming hours for city children.

The swimmers will be placed in four categories, beginners, advanced beginners, intermediates and swimmers. Standard Red Cross tests will be given to each group. The tests include eight or more skills. When a child passes Presenting the cars for the lively life: 3 New Lively Ones from Ford!

New Galaxie 500/XL!

Start this one and you really start something. Available with Thunderbird V-8 power up to 405 hp (coupled to a 4-speed stick shift), the XL will outperform America's most expensive cars—and do it in a whisper. Standard features include all-new bucket seats with a Thunderbird-style console in between. Being a Galaxie, the XL needs service only twice a year, or every 6,000 miles. That means more time for the lively life. Hardtop or convertible. Definitely not for pedestrian tastes!

New falcon Sports futura!

Here's a hot new number from the compact leader. The tempo starts fast with foam-padded bucket seats and a handy console in between... hits a new high note with a stylish new Thunderbird roof (vinyl-covered if you want it)... then goes into the lively melody of an optional 170 Special Six engine. Economy with a flair is the Sports Futura idea... it's priced below many standard compacts.

New fairlane 500 Sports Coupe!

Don't flirt with this one unless you mean it. It has foam-padded bucket seats with a console in between... and an all-new optional "260" Challenger V-8 that packs 164 hp. Fairlane's room, ride and performance are big-car in every way. But no other "big car" can compete in Fairlane's price league: with all its big-car features, this new fine car costs less than many compacts.

Playgrounds Open Today For Summer

Beginning Week Introduces Groups To Daily Schedule

As the Appleton Recreation Department opened today, it was "Get Acquainted Week."

Today the directors of each playground followed through the theme of the week by interviewing the older children, making name tags, playing games and organizing teams. Discussions with the children helped set up each playground's tentative program of special activities. Tonight the arts and craft story hour will be introduced as a regular feature from Monday through Friday.

Games Day

It is get acquainted with games day Tuesday, when both elementary and high school organized games will be explained to the children. A scavenger hunt, as well as the craft and story hour will be offered. Starting Tuesday, physical fitness activity also will be offered nightly.

The different team sports, such as softball, basketball and volleyball, will be organized for the children Wednesday. That night at 5:30 a box social and group singing will highlight the regular program.

Thursday the time for the directors to learn the different singing, dancing and dramatics talents of their groups will be climaxed by a talent night.

Contests Planned

Contests, including the sandbox and poster contest, are on the agenda for Friday.

Closing the week in unique style, Saturday will be the day for the backwards party, in which all the games are played and clothes are worn backwards.

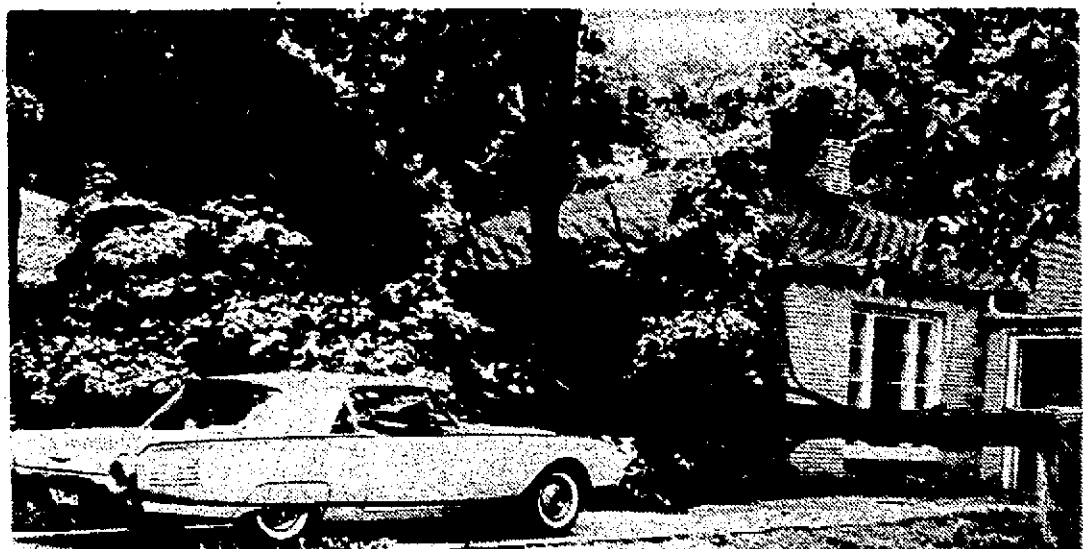

A staff meeting will be at 3:30 p.m. Saturday at city hall.

Special events during the week are at 1:30 p.m. Thursday, when Rhonda Cundy, director, will organize the Appleton Recreation Department Singers at the Dance Studios, and at 9:30 a.m. Friday when director Bobby Krueger will begin casting for the season play, "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs."

Appleton Man Fined For Disorderly Conduct

Dennis Nieft, 21, 1016 N. Union St., was fined $25 and costs today in County Court, Branch 2. He was charged with disorderly conduct.

Nieft was arrested and held by Appleton police Friday night after two patrolmen wrestled a small knife from him on S. Union Street. Nieft told Judge Gustave Keller he had been drinking Friday and could not recall what had happened.

A Huge Tree narrowly missed damaging a house and new automobile at the home of Dr. E. D. Fetting, 1410 S. Memorial Drive, during a wind and rain storm Sunday night. No serious damage was reported. Tree limbs and other debris was strewn about during the storm.

Neenah Man Wins Truck Championship

Post-Crescent News Service

GREEN BAY — John Vander Zanden, Neenah, Gateway Transportation Co. truck driver, won the straight truck title and received the award as best all-around representative of the truck-driving profession in the State Championship Truck Road race over the weekend.

Of the four state championships, the other three went to Green Bay drivers. Donald Chaudoir won the tank truck title.

Gerald Vercauteren won the five-axle crown, and Howard Nissen won the four-axle championship. A fourth Green Bay man received a runner-up award and another was awarded a special certificate of safety achievement on the job.

Top Drivers Compete

Leonard Zunker was a runner-up in the five-axle class and Leonard Belland received the safety award.

Competition involved a collection of top professional drivers from throughout Wisconsin in tests of driving skill and knowledge of highway rules.

The four state champions will represent Wisconsin in the National Truck Road race Aug. 26 to 29 at Dallas, Tex. The event was sponsored by the Wisconsin Truckers' Safety Council.

Funnels Reported In Fox Cities Area

Two funnels were sighted in the Appleton area about noon today. Austin Straubel weather station at Green Bay put on a tornado alert until 3 p.m. today.

Kaukauna policeman Charles Arnold sighted a black funnel south of Kaukauna about noon. He reported it was heading southward Lake Winnebago.

Weather bureau officials indicated the funnels may have dissipated in the eastern Lake Michigan shore area.

Michael Moore, Oshkosh, got out of bed Sunday to investigate the sound of a crash only to find that his car had been buried under a fallen tree. Numerous trees were uprooted, electrical lines downed and the roofs of several buildings were blown off during a violent wind storm.

New Lutheran Church To Be Built in City

Pastor From Minnesota to Lead Congregation of Mission

A new Lutheran congregation is being established in southeast Appleton, with the Rev. Charles W. Briggs as pastor.

Pastor Briggs is under call of the Board of American Missions of the United Lutheran Church in America to develop the new mission church.

He is now making a survey of homes in the area, and will appoint a steering committee in the near future. The steering committee will select a temporary meeting place and help select the church site.

Church Boundaries

Boundaries of the new church will be the Fox River on the west and north, Airport Road and Old Manitowoc Road on the south, S. Kernan Avenue on the east, and W. Seymour St. from Riverview Lane to Oneida Street and Calumet Street from Oneida to Kernan on the north.

City Planning Commission Rejects Plat

Oak Lawn Refused, Southwood Action Deferred for Study

Appleton's planning commission rejected one subdivision plat this morning and deferred action on another pending further study.

The Oak Lawn plat was rejected because of poor street arrangements and because those arrangements would create dead-end water mains.

The plat is east of Lawe Street between Hoover and Wilson streets extended to the east, within the city limits.

There are two culdesacs, or turn-arounds, which will be lined with driveways. That will create a snow storage problem in winter, because there will be no place to put plowed snow without blocking driveways.

It was also pointed out that the culdesacs are too small to be plowed by a regular truck. A tractor with a front end loader would have to be used. If the number of culdesacs multiplies the city will have to invest in additional equipment and hire men to plow just those areas, it was pointed out.

The Southwood plat, in Winnebago County, is being held because of an intersection arrangement that would result in another situation such as now exists at Wisconsin Avenue and Meade Street. Adams Street north of Appleton road would be to the west of Adams Street south of Appleton road.

The Southwood plat is outside the city, but comes within the plan commission's jurisdiction because it is within a three-mile radius of the city.

The plat is an 18-acre narrow strip of land on either side of Adams Street, between Appleton road and the proposed Valley road. Valley road would extend east from Winnebago County Trunk P and connect with Taft Street in Appleton.

Ottawa Mall To Open for Second Year

Businessmen Not Agreed on Success Of Walkers' Street

OTTAWA (AP) — The Sparks Street Mall, three traffic-free blocks in the heart of a major shopping area in Canada's capital city, is open for business for the third summer.

One group of merchants says wiping traffic off the three blocks hurt business. Others point to economic surveys which say the mall has helped Sparks Street stores fight the competition of outlying shopping centers and discount houses. Ottawa's fire chief also was opposed but lanes have been left this year so fire apparatus can operate.

There are 76 stores along the mall. The experiment was tried first in 1960 a year after a group of Ottawa business men, planners and political leaders surveyed a similar experiment in Toledo, Ohio.

Lined With Trees

This year, the Sparks Street Mall, just a block south of Parliament Hill, is lined with 71 trees — ash, linden, maple and poplar — set in large concrete pots. It is bedecked with flowers. Four outdoor restaurants are spotted on the three blocks and the pavement itself is painted in large black and white rectangles. Benches are spotted at frequent intervals. Abstract sculptures also have been placed. The Canadian Air Force has erected a large exhibit.

Russell Boyce, president of the Sparks Street Development Association, urged a start on making the mall permanent, the year around. Closing date this year is Oct. 9. He said the time is ripe for the city council to take a hand in such a project; the mayor said she wasn't so sure.

Johnson Will Seek Fifth Congress Term

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Lester Johnson, D-Wis., announced Sunday that he will seek reelection to his fifth full term from Wisconsin's 9th Congressional District.

Johnson, who turned 61 Saturday and makes his home at Black River Falls, was first elected to Congress in 1953 to fill the unexpired term of the late Rep. Merlin Hull, a Republican.

JOHNSON WILL SEEK 6

Johnson made no reference in his announcement to the unsettled political boundary situation affecting his district. The state legislature begins work today on reapportionment of the state and some reapportionment plans would eliminate the present Ninth District. Johnson's home could be placed in either the Third or Tenth district under such a plan.

Master Plan Useless Unless Fully Utilized

Commission Says Assurance Necessary Before Appleton Applies for Federal Funds

There will have to be a high degree of certainty that any master plan drawn for the City of Appleton will be implemented and fully carried out before it can conscientiously recommend applying for federal funds, the planning commission said this morning.

The Chamber of Commerce is proposing Appleton seek federal aid under bill 701. The chamber estimates a master plan would cost $75,000 and says the city's share would be about $25,000.

City Planner Walter Rasmussen was asked to study bill 701 and to report to the commission on just what the bill covers, what implementation it requires and what procedures must be followed to apply for and receive federal money.

Several chamber representatives attended the commission's meeting today.

Future of Plan

They were asked what assurance there is that the master plan will not become a nice-looking but dust-covered book on some city hall shelf. It was recalled this has happened to several other plans, such as the Barton plan, which analyzed the city's street and traffic problems and made recommendations on how to correct them.

The only part of that plan well utilized were the recommendations for some one-way streets. It also recommended the location of the College Avenue high bridge, which also was the location chosen by the State Highway Commission.

The chamber representatives told the commission there are certain things that must be done.

The plan will have to be worked on a day-to-day basis, they said, or it will end up on a shelf gathering dust.

Chamber representatives suggested that the city appropriate money in its 1963 budget for a master plan. They said probably it will take six months to a year to get any federal aid. By that time, they said, the regional plan will have been finished and there will have been time to fully analyze it to see what else is needed.

State Campers Name Neenah Man Director

10 Fox Valley Families Registered To Attend Convention at Oconomowoc

NEENAH — Carl Williams, 700 Chestnut St., was named regional director to head Wisconsin Chapter of the National Campers and Hikers Association at its fifth annual campout-convention at Oconomowoc from Friday through Sunday.

Wisconsin Chapter of Marinette-Menominee was awarded the 1963 campout-convention.

Named as field directors and their particular responsibilities were Roger Zimmer of Green Bay, membership; Arthur DeWitt, Marinette, legislation; John Zass, Waukesha, trips and maps; and Russell Linstead, Oconomowoc, publicity.

Eighty-six families representing more than 300 persons registered for the outing, including 10 families from the Fox Valley Chapter.

Elmer Root, Hortonville, presided Sunday over the interdenominational church service and members of the Fox Valley Chapter provided special music assisting in the church service was Mrs. Truman Shelley of Hortonville.

Start Park Head
Roman Koenigs, superintendent of state parks and forests for the Wisconsin Conservation Department, outlined what is being done with the money received from the park sticker fee and the outdoor resource development program financed by a tax on cigars.

Four park police patrol cars have been purchased and radio inter-communications set up with the sheriff's offices and state traffic patrol in the state park areas to combat vandalism and delinquency, he said.

Money from the park sticker fee is coming in up to expectations and this money can be used for maintenance and repairs. The other revenues are used for park and state forest development, Koenigs explained.

Also speaking to the group at its Saturday night campfire was Marvin Hanson, assistant state 4-H leader, who stresses observing and understanding the beauties of nature and keeping the family together as a unit, such as demonstrated by camping.

A special appreciation plaque was presented to Len Matthews, Merrill, for his work on behalf of the national organization and for conservation. The plaque was from the national NCHA headquarters.

Two Take Double Wins In Regatta
NEENAH — Frank Grundman and Eric Larson were double winners in the Neenah-Nodaway Yacht Club's weekend regatta. Grundman was victorious in the E class and Larson placed first in the X fleet junior division.

Grundman's times were 61 minutes on Saturday and 1 hour, 21 minutes on Sunday. Larson won Saturday's race in 57 minutes and Sunday's regatta in 1 hour, nine minutes.

W. R. Kellett sailed his A scow home in 1 hour, 17 minutes on Saturday. Bob Kimberly and Gus Larson didn't finish. Kellett and Larson, the only starters, both were disabled on Sunday.

Marna Jorgensen won Saturday's race in 57 minutes and Sunday's regatta in 1 hour, nine minutes.

Catholic Women's Group Installs 1962 Officers
MENASHA — Mrs. Cornelius Crowe Appleton, worthy district deputy, was the installing officer when Court Allouez Catholic Daughters of America held its installation of officers ceremony at a Thursday meeting at Knights of Columbus Clubhouse.

Officers are Mrs. John Ashenbrucker, grand regent; Mrs. Walter Rappert, vice grand regent; Mrs. Ralph Resch, prophetess; Miss Leone Pitschke, financial secretary; Mrs. Rodney Kiefer, historian; Mrs. Joseph Rechner, treasurer; Mrs. Ken Wallace, monitor; Mrs. Robert Vandenberg, sentinel; Mrs. L. W. Roemer, lecturer; and Mrs. T. D. Spalding, organist. Trustees are Mrs. Harry Kargus, Mrs. Carl Blank and Miss Sylvia Nampo.

Beginning Sept. 13, the first fall meeting, Court Allouez will meet at St. Gabriel Catholic Church cafeteria.

Mrs. John Hrubesky and Mrs. Carl Blank reported on the state convention, which they attended in May at Madison. Plans were made to hold a summer picnic on July 12. Reservations are due July 9 with Mrs. Paul Malone or Mrs. Vandenberg, who are heading the arrangements committee. Card games will follow the picnic.

An award winner at the meeting was Mrs. Rappert.

Neenah Boys Were Involved in Fatal Accident on County A
OSHKOSH — Six Neenah youths were given county jail sentences today ranging from 8 to 16 days for being in a tavern. Four of the youths also were fined $20 each on a second similar charge.

Forest Hyde, 19, 317 Second St., and Richard Getschow, 18, 224 Bond St., were each sentenced to 16 days and fined $20. William John O'Leary, 18, 400 Eleventh St., were sentenced to 8 days each and fined $20.

Carl Beringer Jr., 19, and James Lauson Jr., 18, both of route 1, Neenah, received 8 day jail terms.

These six, Jerry Moen, 19, 1204 S. Park Ave., and Michael Versteegen, 19, Neenah, were together early the morning of June 4 when Versteegen was killed in an automobile accident on County Trunk A. Moen, driver of the car, is still hospitalized. Stinski, who also was injured in the accident, was released from the hospital over the weekend.

Beringer and Lauson admitted being in the Lakeshore Bar on County Trunk A and the other four admitted to being in the Club Oasis in addition.

Heavier Sentence
County Branch Three Judge James V. Sitter, in passing sentence, said he was giving the longer sentences to Hyde and Getschow because they were driving cars and had more control over the situation than the others.

Sentencing of Harry O. Miller, 42, 1129 High Ave., Oshkosh, operator of the Lakeshore Bar, was postponed until Tuesday morning. He has pleaded guilty of permitting minors to be in his tavern.

Arraignment of Jack Vanderhei, 916 Grove St., Oshkosh, owner of the Club Oasis, also was postponed until Tuesday.

Howard Angermeyer Named to National Apprentice Group
NEENAH — Howard J. Angermeyer, head of the Angermeyer Plumbing and Heating Co., Inc., has been appointed to the national apprenticeship committee of the National Association of Plumbing Contractors by C. D. Brownell, national president.

Angermeyer attended the 80th national convention of plumbing contractors last week at St. Louis. About 50 Wisconsin firms were represented at the meeting at which John Tower, U.S. Senator from Texas, and Walter Judd, Minnesota member of the House of Representatives, spoke.

Contractor Gets Go-Ahead to Build Duplex in Menasha
MENASHA — A temporary injunction blocking construction of a new duplex home in Menasha was lifted this morning by consent of the plaintiff, Thomas Russell, 740 Warsaw St.

Russell last Monday got the order from County Judge James Sitter after his efforts to have

He received a building permit after the planning commission May 23 approved the project, and ruled the home would not be at variance with the neighborhood. The lot on which Nofke will build has 40 feet of frontage.

Town of Clayton Church Marks Renovation Project
NEENAH — A renovation project costing more than $3,300 was dedicated at services at Immanuel Evangelical Lutheran Church in the Town of Clayton Sunday afternoon. The Rev. Julius Manke served as guest speaker at the service in which the Rev. Orvin Sommer, pastor, also took part.

The work in the sanctuary included rebuilding the floor, moving the altar back to make room for the new communion rail, removal of a window, moving the door, new carpeting, new pulpit and lectern, new lighting and moving the organ speakers.

The sacristy work included new wardrobe cabinet and desk for the pastor, a new exterior door and storage cabinets.

A new asphalt tile floor was installed in the church proper and the wainscote was covered with sheetrock, the rear wall was rebuilt and new front doors were installed. The church also was redecorated.

Members of the church did much of the labor.

Order Investigation Of Alleged Burglars
OSHKOSH — A pre-sentence investigation was ordered Friday for James E. Schneider, 27, and Thomas J. McCarthy, 30, both of Fond du Lac, who changed pleas of innocent to guilty of burglary.

Sentencing was set for June 29 and bond was continued at $10,000 for Schneider and $5,000 for McCarthy.

The pair was caught inside the Norge Village Laundromat, 602 Murdock Ave., early last Wednesday morning after they had installed the church also was redecorated.

Schneider also admitted burglarizing the same laundromat of $370 on May 28.

Neenah Eagles To Seat Officers
NEENAH — Officers of the Neenah Eagles Aerie will be installed at a meeting at 8 p.m. Tuesday. The meeting has been moved up from Thursday because of the state convention at Manitowish.

Being installed will be Fred C. Kuchenbecker as president, Hjalmer Olsen as vice president, L. M. Lowe as chaplain, Marvin Kees as secretary, Alonzo Engel as treasurer, Robert Strobel as trustee and Addison Doane as junior past president.

Plans will be discussed for the coming year. Last year 30 new members were initiated into the aerie and plans are being formed to seek 100 new members this year.

Charles D. Tappan will direct the degree team this year and its first practice will be after Tuesday night's meeting.

Neenah Boys Were Involved in Fatal Accident on County A
OSHKOSH — Six Neenah youths were given county jail sentences today ranging from 8 to 16 days for being in a tavern. Four of the youths also were fined $20 each on a second similar charge.

Forest Hyde, 19, 317 Second St., and Richard Getschow, 18, 224 Bond St., were each sentenced to 16 days and fined $20. William John O'Leary, 18, 400 Eleventh St., were sentenced to 8 days each and fined $20.

Carl Beringer Jr., 19, and James Lauson Jr., 18, both of route 1, Neenah, received 8 day jail terms.

These six, Jerry Moen, 19, 1204 S. Park Ave., and Michael Versteegen, 19, Neenah, were together early the morning of June 4 when Versteegen was killed in an automobile accident on County Trunk A. Moen, driver of the car, is still hospitalized. Stinski, who also was injured in the accident, was released from the hospital over the weekend.

Beringer and Lauson admitted being in the Lakeshore Bar on County Trunk A and the other four admitted to being in the Club Oasis in addition.

Howard Angermeyer Named to National Apprentice Group
NEENAH — Howard J. Angermeyer, head of the Angermeyer Plumbing and Heating Co., Inc., has been appointed to the national apprenticeship committee of the National Association of Plumbing Contractors by C. D. Brownell, national president.

Angermeyer attended the 80th national convention of plumbing contractors last week at St. Louis. About 50 Wisconsin firms were represented at the meeting at which John Tower, U.S. Senator from Texas, and Walter Judd, Minnesota member of the House of Representatives, spoke.

Contractor Gets Go-Ahead to Build Duplex in Menasha
MENASHA — A temporary injunction blocking construction of a new duplex home in Menasha was lifted this morning by consent of the plaintiff, Thomas Russell, 740 Warsaw St.

Russell last Monday got the order from County Judge James Sitter after his efforts to have

Five Attend Y State Conference At Camp Talaki

NEENAH — Five Neenah-Menasha Y-Teens are attending the state Y-Teen summer conference, which opened Sunday and will end Friday at Camp Talaki, Wild Rose.

Attending are Kathy Boyson, Linda Ecker, Cheryl Meydem, Jean Schliem, official Menasha delegate, and Kathy Pingel, Neenah delegate. They are accompanied by Mrs. Marilyn Falk, teen-age director, who is serving as conference assistant business manager.

Over 100 Y-Teens from Beloit, Green Bay, Janesville, LaCrosse, Madison, Milwaukee, Racine, Waukesha, Wausau and Neenah-Menasha are attending the conference. "Five Pennies" is the theme of the conclave with five workshops to be held on recreation, worship, music, drama and club organization.

Delegates also will attend interest group sections on "Christianity versus communism," "Pro-gram exchange and promotion," "Role of teenage girls, YWCA and world affairs," and "Music and the jazz." The Rev. Dwight Conrad will be the resource speaker. The conference executive is Bonnie Lee Duncan of the Green Bay YWCA.

Two Building Permits Issued
NEENAH — Permits for a $20,000 filling station and a $12,000 duplex, both on W. Cecil Street, were issued today by Building Inspector Carlton F. Williams.

Schouten Oil Co. took out the permit for the filling station to be erected at W. Cecil Street and Byrd Avenue. The station will be 32 by 70 feet in size and permit for masonry construction.

Tembeis Realty Co. secured the permit for the duplex to be built west of U.S. 41 on W. Cecil Street. It will be 34 by 46 feet in size.

The duplex is the 47th new home to be authorized in Neenah this year.

Public Meeting Tuesday Hearing Set on Street Improvement Projects

MENASHA — Public hearing on one course of bituminous concrete paving at $1 a foot on Butte drives. In 1960, the first course of pavement was laid on the streets.

Estimated cost of the project is $5,325 total, $700 the city share and $4,625.50 assessed. In the 1962 city budget, the project cost (before bids were received) was $6,525.50.

Another project is curb and gutter, at $2.25 a foot, and two-course pavement, $1.75 a foot, on DePere Street between Broad and Second streets.

Estimated cost in the city budget, $7,323.50. Of that, the city will pay $3,154.69 and fronting property owners $4,168.81.

The third project is sidewalk construction on the north side of River Street, with assessments $3,244.11 of the total $12,014 cost. The city will pay $8,769.89 for street repair and storm sewer construction. Sidewalk construction assessments will be 60 cents a foot.

The Common Council will meet at 7 p.m. today as a committee of the whole and at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday for regular business.

12 Twin Cities Residents Receive Red Cross Titles

NEENAH — Red Cross home nursing instruction certificates and pins were presented to 12 Neenah-Menasha area residents at an informal gathering at Neenah chapter headquarters last week.

Mrs. Elmer Hauge, home nursing chairman for Neenah chapter, received a home nursing trainee certificate.

Receiving the certificates and pins which identify them as home nursing instructors were Ramona Larson and James O'Reilly of Wunnebag. Betty Schneider of Appleton, Shirley Nollenberg, Dorothy Pawlowski, Miriam Crowell and Alma Mischelson of Menasha, Tracy Howman, Helen Roubesh, Frances Schultz, Marcella Vandenberg and Betty Whittington of Neenah.

Thirty hours of training, in addition to practical work, were completed by the group to earn the certificates.

Guests at the gathering were Donald Hruska, chairman of Neenah chapter, American Red Cross, Carl Snyder, chairman of Menasha chapter, Mrs. Pawlowski and Mrs. Ann Hedges, chairman of volunteers for Menasha and Neenah chapters.

Earl Burts, who has been conducting a series of Red Cross first aid courses for both Menasha and Neenah chapters this spring, showed two Red Cross films.

Defense Procurement Used as Heavy Stick

BY FRANCES MCKUSICK

WASHINGTON — Defense procurement is one vehicle through which the Kennedy Administration is attempting to wield a heavy stick to get its own way, Rep. John W. Byrnes, R., Green Bay, charged today.

According to the Congressman, who is chairman of the House Republican Policy Committee, two examples of the Administration's strong-arm tactics have come to light within the last few weeks.

One example came out during the steel strike, he said, when "one of the weapons the President used was directed procurement."

Laird Safeguard

"One of our Wisconsin congressmen, Mel Laird of Marshfield discovered that during the steel strike, a multi-million dollar order for hull steel for Polaris submarines was telephoned to a competitor of U. S. Steel," Byrnes related. "Mel has reported that this order was phoned in without bids being submitted and without consideration being given to another qualified steel producer who had not increased its prices."

Laird's appropriations subcommittee on defense, however, required the Defense Department to cancel part of this contract.

Byrnes said, adding that "the best safeguard against such ruthless executive power is the existence of alert legislators such as Mel Laird."

A second example of the Administration using blackmailing methods through defense procurement came about during debate on the bill to raise the debt limit an additional $8 billion.

Byrnes, who led the fight opposing the $8 billion increase, pointed out that several members from Ohio and New York were contacted by persons who had direct connection with the Pentagon.

Members Pressurized

"These members were told (in effect) that unless they voted the way the Administration wanted them to vote, then the industries in their districts would be penalized when defense contracts were let," Byrnes said.

The congressman added that it would be unnecessary to cut back defense contracts, even though the debt limit would not be increased by $8 billion, since economies could be made in other departments.

He cited that for one thing, a cut back could be made in the 100,000 additional federal employees requested by the Administration and "new spending programs could be eliminated. Cut-backs in non-essential programs also could be made."

indigestion, gas, heartburn, before distress begins!

Because of today's fast, hectic living pace, we often suffer indigestion, gas, heartburn and other uncomfortable forms of painful stomach tension. But now, a new digestant enzyme capsule, called MIAZYME can help prevent these conditions before they begin.

If you properly digest the food you eat, chances are you will not suffer stomach distress. This is due to the action of enzymes, manufactured in the digestive process. But when these enzymes fall below par, you are apt to suffer indigestion, gas, bloating, heartburn, etc.

Why risk the distress of stomach tension? Just two MIAZYME capsules a day will help eliminate the discomforts of indigestion, gas, heartburn, and open the door to new vistas in food enjoyment.

MIAZYME contains no narcotics! No habit forming drugs! Only digestant enzymes! No harmful side effects, taken as directed. So safe, no prescription is needed! Get MIAZYME today at your favorite drug store. Try it for 6 days on our money-back guarantee of satisfaction. Regular size, $1.50. Economy size, $3.00.

None Injured In Chilton Crashes

CHILTON — Two minor traffic accidents, almost identical in nature, were investigated by city police June 14.

At 4:55 p. m. cars driven by Erna Heimann, 43, route 4, Chilton, and Clifford C. Beattie, 66, Marinette, were involved in an accident at the intersection of N. Madison and Grand streets.

According to police, Beattie was attempting to pass on the right as both vehicles were northbound when Mrs. Heimann turned to the right onto Grand Street.

Both drivers escaped injury. The intersection of Main and Madison streets was the scene of an accident about 4:20 p. m. involving vehicles driven by Delar C. Weber, 36, Sheboygan, and Violet J. Ramiker, 47, Madison.

City police said the truck driven by Weber scraped the Ramiker car when it pulled away from the stop sign and made a right turn across the path of the Ramiker car.

Shares Down After Rally

Up Sharply in Early Trading but Selling Wipes Out Gains

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market showed a fairly sharp loss early this afternoon as trading slowed following an active morning.

Reflecting a cut of about one-third in the gains made in Friday's vigorous rally, The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was down 1.80 at 212.30 with industrials off 3.50, rails unchanged and utilities down .70.

The list was up sharply at the opening in a resumption of Friday's rise. The profits were taken quickly and gains were converted to losses.

As trading wore into the afternoon, tobacco still held a string of moderate gains. Steels were unchanged to slightly lower. All motor stocks were off. Rails were mixed.

Wide Range in IBM

IBM, after rising at the start, showed a loss of about 16 points at worst, then cut the decline to about 4.

A T & T erased a fractional advance and showed a net loss exceeding a point.

Losses of more than a point were taken also by Sears, Roebuck, Woolworth, International Telephone, Santa Fe and Johns-Manville.

Fractional gains were held by Reynolds Tobacco, Lorillard and Liggett & Myers. American Tobacco was steady.

Ford was off around a point while fractional declines were shown by General Motors, Chrysler, American Motors and Studebaker-Packard.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off 5.81 at 572.57. Prices declined in fairly active trading on the American Stock Exchange.

Corporate bonds were mixed. U.S. government bonds declined.

Veteran Loans Delayed Until Fund Allocation

Approval Postponed For Housing Grants In Eight Counties

WAUPACA — Veterans in eight counties will have to wait until the July allocation of funds to have their state housing loans approved, John R. Moses, director of the Wisconsin Department of Veterans Affairs, announced today.

The counties are Waupaca, Buffalo, Calumet, Forest, Kewaunee, Pepin, Taylor and Waushara.

Another group of counties, including Outagamie County, have only enough money to make room from one to three loans, Moses said.

He said demand for state housing loans showed a sharp increase during the first five months of 1962 compared with the same period in 1961. From January, 1962, through May 1, 1,901 applications were received from veterans throughout the state. During the same period in 1961, 889 applications were received.

Every four months housing funds remaining in each county are turned back to the department and reallocated on July 1, Nov. 1 and March 1. Prior to 1961 funds were reallocated only once a year. The maximum loan available is $3,500 and the dwelling to be purchased can cost no more than $17,500.

Further information is available from Frank R. Smith, county veterans service office, at the Waupaca courthouse.

Appleton Man Fined $25 for Moving Home Without Proper Permit

Edward L. Unmuth, 49, 222 E. Spring St., Appleton, was fined $25 and costs in County Court. Branch 2 for moving a home without a proper permit.

Unmuth was arrested by Outagamie County traffic patrolmen June 9 after he moved a home through the Town of Grand Chute from Appleton. Unmuth said he had not been able to receive a proper moving permit from the Town of Grand Chute because the permits were not issued on Saturdays.

The house was moved from S. Mason Street to Elmer Road. Traffic patrolmen said Unmuth had damaged a railroad sign and two mailboxes en route. Damages have been taken care of. Unmuth said.

Market Crash Not Women's Fault

BY SYLVIA PORTER

Was it the "little woman" who panicked on Black Monday, May 28, in Wall Street, then in unreasoning terror dumped her stocks in sky-rocketing volume and thereby set off one of the worst stock market slumps of this century?

This is the accusation Wilbert H. Teepe, a vice president of Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith, made on TV that chaotic week. He declared that 75 per cent of the sell orders he received on Black Monday—and NO buy orders—came from panic-stricken female investors. The Insider's Newsletter of Cowles Magazines picked up the spectacular quote, queried Mrs. Ruth Hagy, vice president of United Shareholders of America, who "conceded that most of the heavy selling did come from unseasoned investors and that women formed a large part of this group."

NUTS to Mr Teepe and Mrs.

Hagy—and I've evidence to back up my derisive retort. What Teepe claimed and what Mrs. Hagy conceded wasn't so, and what's more, it couldn't have been so.

ITEM: Merrill Lynch itself is now making an exhaustive investigation of the 174,000 transactions through its firm that one week and, although its study isn't yet finished, it has enough data to give its own Teepe the back of its statistical hand.

Only One in Five

To start with, only one of every five of Merrill Lynch's stock customers is a woman and so, as another vice president said, "Obviously women couldn't be responsible for 75 per cent of the selling in our firm." The week's transactions haven't been broken down by sex at this writing, but this official flatly states: "We know females didn't cause it, there weren't enough of them in the market—and our trading records from day to day and month to month show women aren't nearly as important in trading as some think."

Actually, on the Thursday following the crash—May 31—odd lot buying in this largest brokerage firm in the world topped odd lot selling by three to one. Buying in odd lots that one day totaled $19.5 million, selling $6.4 million and for the week odd lot buying totaled $49 million against $40 million of selling. Since odd lots are transactions in less than 100 shares each, it's logical to believe a lot of unseasoned females would be in this group.

ITEM: Bache & Co. a second firm high in the top 10, agrees and goes even farther. Says Bache's Henry Gellerman, "She behaved as she always does—she sees a bargain and she buys it." Gellerman adds significantly that, "More women opened new accounts during those hectic days of the sell off than ever before!" A random survey of Wall Street firms indicates this was a fairly general experience—and the new accounts were predominantly buying.

Far Less Active

ITEM: From a third brokerage firm—this one asking not to be identified—came more confirmation. Since Black Monday it has made a serious effort to find out whether women customers behaved differently from men during the market break. Its findings suggest that, "If anything, women were more conservative and far less active. If I had to guess," says an official of this house, "I'd put it three to one the other way—three men panicked for every woman."

ITEM: From a fourth firm which had been highly active in new, hot stock issues in 1961, willing to comment but not to be named. The ones who dumped were men who had gone over their heads in once hot issues and who saw their capital fading away. Women didn't get as much of a chance to get in on these issues. The panic-stricken were the men who had been "lucky" enough to have had the tips."

ITEM: While women are participating in the stock market on a paring in the stock market on a record scale, they still accounted for well under 30 per cent of all trading by public individuals at the last census, hardly a major role.

Other responsible surveys have emphasized women tend to become attached to favorite stocks—such as Telephone—won't sell no matter what advice they get. These are behavior patterns, not easily changed.

You know who panicked on TV May 28? Mr Teepe. You know who used "unseasoned" judgment in conceding his accuracy? Mrs. Hagy.

Birdie Orders More Rest for Two Starters

Mathews Sits Out Doubleheader but Will Return Tonight

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Milwaukee Braves Manager Birdie Tebbetts has ordered more rest for two of his starters—Eddie Mathews and Warren Spahn.

Tebbetts made his decision about Mathews before the Braves were beaten 7-3 by the Pittsburgh Pirates Sunday and the one about Spahn after the game.

Mathews sat out the afternoon, Spahn started and failed to last six innings, taking his eighth defeat in 14 decisions.

Ranks Whole

Tebbetts made the changes only two days after he was able to put his starting lineup on the field as a unit for the first time this season. The ranks were whole when Lee Maye played the outfield and Joe Adcock first base in Friday night's game with the Pirates.

"Mathews won't ask for a rest but I think he needs one," Tebbetts said before the Braves took the field. Despite the order Mathews found his way into the batting cage and took a few swings, saying he could pinch-hit if needed.

The injured shoulder muscle that put Mathews out of the lineup for nearly two weeks early in May has been giving him new trouble, bothering more when he swings a bat than when he throws.

Replaced by Menke

Mathews was replaced by Denis Menke and Tommie Aaron, who had one hit in three appearances between them. After the game, Tebbetts said Mathews probably would be back at third for tonight's series opener with the Mets in New York.

Tebbetts said that Spahn didn't have the stuff he usually has, and noted that the prize southpaw has been pitching every four days Spahn, who hasn't won on the road this year, has lost five of his eight games by one run, but Sunday the Pirates had a 4-0 lead when he was lifted.

Tebbetts said he figured Spahn needs another day of rest, which would put him to work every fifth day. Spahn worked briefly last year on a five-day rotation imposed by Charlie Dressen, last season's manager.

Scattered Showers and thundershowers are forecast for the western Appalachians in the Ohio and Mississippi valleys and from the northeastern sections of the plains southwest to Wyoming. ## Minding Your Business

By Cyrus Barrett, Jr.

DEAR CY:

I was raised in Ohio as a boy, but because I lived in the city, I never got to live or work on a farm. If I would have stayed on a farm for even a short week, I would have a better understanding of farmers' problems and the farm market for goods. If I had seen the inside of a chicken house or cow barn, or plowed with a tractor, I'd feel like I knew a little about the business of farming.

We have two boys and two girls and I would like us all to get a taste of farm life. We have no friends or relatives who own farms so how? Where?

BROCK

DEAR BROCK:

Vacationing on a farm with your family is a great idea! You won't become agronomists, but will develop some "feel" of farming. "A Pocket Directory of Farm Vacations and Holidays" is published at 500 Fifth Avenue, New York City (50 cents). In it are listed farms throughout America where you and the brood can vacation this summer for either a week or until school starts.

Here's what it says about Wild

DEAR BROCK:

I travel a lot, and sometimes will drive late at night. I want a place open that is not out of the way. I got to thinking it might be a good idea to start an all-automatic drive-in, so round-the-clock travellers could get service I am sure someone has already thought of this, and am wondering if they have. If they have, I might like to get in, with $5,000 I have saved.

PAUL R.

DEAR PAUL:

Quik Shop, the automated drive-in chain, is already in operation. From matched vending machines, such foods as cheeseburgers, ham sandwiches, milk shakes, coffee and dairy products are dispensed. According to Quik Shop (Utica, Michigan) "from $8,400 to $10,000 is required to start a Quik Shop operation. This is for the down payment on the equipment, building, black-top paved lot, and sign."

Although you have less money than required, contact this firm.

DEAR CY:

Why don't automobile dealers just mark down cars to their lowest possible price? I like to know what I am getting, and like to know what anyone else is paying. When I went in to buy an automobile, I found if I wasn't such a good dickerer, I wouldn't get such a good deal. Why not the lowest price for all buyers, disregarding trade-in?

Miss Haynie Wins Rockton Open

ROCKTON, Ill. (AP) — Sandra Haynie fired a birdie on the 54th and final hole of the Rockford Cosmopolitan Women's Golf Open Sunday to cop a two-stroke victory over runner-up Ruth Jensen.

The tiny winner from Port Worth Tex., went into Sunday's final round with a three-stroke lead and her par 72 on the final 18 gave her a total of 210. Miss Jensen of Seattle Wash., broke par by a stroke to finish with a 212.

Betsy Rawls the 1961 Rockford champion, came in three strokes over par at 219 for an 11th place finish.

The triumph was the second in a row for Miss Haynie. The 18-year-old newcomer to the women's tour won the Austin, Tex. Civitan a week ago Sunday's victory was worth $1,200.

Italy Moves Into Cup Semi-Finals

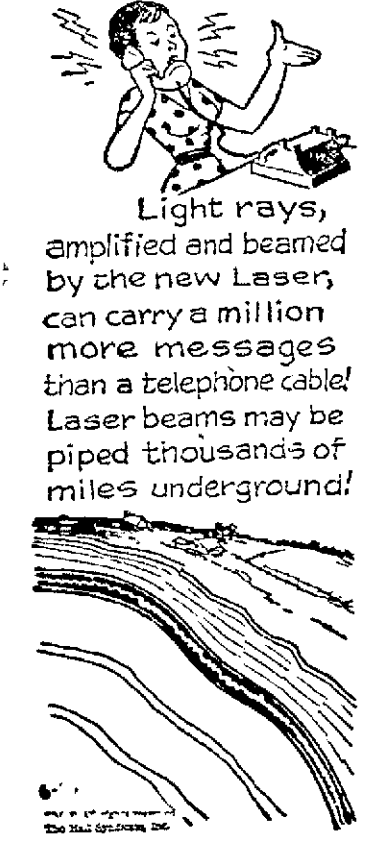

BRESCIA, Italy (AP) — Italy conquered Hungary 4-1 Sunday in a European Zone Davis Cup quarter-final match and moved into the semifinals against Great Britain.

Nicola Pietrangeli assured the victory for Italy by beating the Hungarians' 46-year-old captain, Zoltan Katonai, 6-0, 6-2, 6-3. Italy's Fausto Gardini put the finishing touches on the triumph by downing Istvan Gulyas 6-2, 2-6, 6-3, 6-2.

Loker Wins State 1,500-Meter Event

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The Milwaukee Track Club piled up a record 105 points in streaking to the 15th annual Wisconsin AAU outdoor championship Saturday night at Marquette Stadium.

The University Track Club of Milwaukee was second with 18 points, followed by the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee with 11.

Don Loker of Appleton, a University of Wisconsin distance runner competing unattached, won the 1,500-meter run in 4:00.1, nine tenths of a second faster than the record set by Jard Nourse in 1959.

A. The Superintendent respectfully requests that the Board of Education approve the following book additions for the 1962-63 school year:

1. Spanish Present text to be replaced—Alternative Spanish Review Grammar and Composition Recommended adoption — Review Text Spanish Two Years Arnsco School Publications—copyright 1958 Price $1.35 (Paper - bound book)

The Department makes this recommendation as indicated:

(1) This very compact paper-bound book contains the most concise and "usable" Spanish grammar and composition, as well as two entire sections devoted primarily to the history and geography of both Spain and Spanish America.

(2) This book is to be used as a grammar text in conjunction with both third and fourth year high school Spanish. It is extremely suitable for other texts now in use in these years.

Spanish Text Present text to be replaced—El Camino Real, Book I Recommended adoption — Primer Para Todos D. C. Heath Publishing Co. Copyright 1959 Net price Book I - $3.50 Net price Book II - $3.90

The Department makes this recommendation as indicated:

(1) This series of books for both first and second year Spanish shall provide a new and fresh approach to Spanish conversation and grammar.

(2) New concepts of Spanish grammar are very evident in this new text.

(3) The book itself is extremely colorful. It contains most vivid illustrations and very authentic

Board of Education Consider the possibility of adding the cabinets at the Edison School so that they may be firmly attached to the wall and properly joined to make a continuous cabinet top available for proper use and cleanliness. Specifications were drawn for movable type cabinets, which have not proven satisfactory. The company is willing to rework the present cabinets and furnish some additional cabinets at a cost of $3,707.30. If we are to correct the above situation it should be done before continued use makes it impossible.

Actor Claims He Plays Himself in TV Series

William Hopper of 'Perry Mason'
Doesn't Stick to Book With Drake

BY BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "If they thought they were getting Paul Drake, they were mistaken. Because what they got was me, not body else."

William Hopper was talking about the producers of "Perry Mason" and his own role in it. He was talking like Bill Hopper — or Paul Drake, take your choice — frankly and businesslike.

That's Hopper, a strikingly handsome man with luxurious blond-white hair, rugged physique and a serious attitude. Only rarely does his face break into a smile.

"Paul Drake in the Erle Stanley Gardner books was an entirely different character," he remarked. "I play him my way. Now I'm amused to read Gardner's new books. Paul Drake now comes out like me!"

Many an actor would chafe at playing second banana in a television series. Not Hopper.

"I couldn't be more pleased," he said. "I tested for the Perry Mason role. I lost it, and it was the best thing that ever happened to me."

"Why? Because I've seen what it has done to Ray Burr. The poor guy has had to dedicate his life to Perry Mason. I remember in the first two years, he used to stay up until midnight every night to work out changes that would improve the script."

"Even now he must live at the studio while we're working. He has no outside life whatsoever. Luckily, he is the kind of guy who is dedicated to activity. If he has nothing to do for three weeks, he ends up in the hospital."

Bill comes by his acting naturally. His father was the noted actor DeWolf Hopper. His mother, Hedda Hopper, also acted and now writes an entertainment column. Bill tried his hand at acting before the war and afterward, he ended up in a car salesman.

He combined car selling and acting for a while. When the blossoming of live television made pickings good for actors, he gave up the car lot forever.

'Secret' Has 10th Birthday As TV Show

BY TV SCOUT
9:30-10 (Channel 2) — I've Got a Secret is 10 years old this week and deserves its self-administered pat on the back, an anniversary show. Gary Moore and regular panelists Bess Meyerson, Betsy Palmer, Bill Cullen and Henry Morgan will celebrate without benefit of a guest star.

7-7:30 (Channel 2) — Pete and Gladys repeats one of its funniest episodes. Cara Williams has a wild, clownish outing. It's all completely illogical — and delightful.

7:30-8 (Channel 4-5) — The Price is Right continues on its wealthy way, with Bill Cullen dispensing the loot. Tonight, one contestant will have a chance to make a pile of money — if he stops Cullen in time. Color.

8-9 (Channel 11) — Surfside 6 is technically the only non-repeat among tonight's dramatic shows. The basic plot involves Troy Donahue as the target for a gunman.

8-9 (Channel 4-5) — 87th Precinct's repeat tips its hand early in the case, but still manages to build suspense as you wonder whether the police will catch up with "The Modus Man." This arch-fiend copies the criminal styles of assorted crooks, thoroughly confusing the force for a time.

8:30-9 (Channel 2) — The Andy Griffith Show repeats one of the many episodes which capitalized on Don Knotts' amiable bumbling. Here we have Andy and Don in the state capital, to get more money for their force, when Don decides what they must do to prove their worthiness is capture a dangerous criminal.

9-10 (Channel 11) — Ben Casey's repeat is a good one, primarily because of top actors in the guest star roles. George C. Scott and Colleen Dewhurst were imported from New York to play a drug-addicted doctor and his pregnant wife. Scott and Miss Dewhurst are man and wife in real life, too.

10:20-12 (Channel 4-5) — Steve Lawrence, this week's host on Tonight, welcomes Franki Avalon, Mort Sahl and Jim Backus. (Color)

Castro, Cronies Can't Stand Heat, Turn to Wax at Coney Island

NEW YORK (AP) — Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro and 17 of his bearded cronies couldn't stand the heat put on them early Sunday in Coney Island.

They softened up and melted into huge globs of wax, when fire of an undetermined origin broke out in Coney Island's World in Wax Museum.

Lillie St. Angelo, who founded the museum with her husband 34 years ago, said a wax likeness of President Abraham Lincoln, murderer Ruth Snyder and dozens of other famous and infamous people escaped undamaged.

Williams Tests Newest Play in Spoleto, Italy

NEW YORK (AP) — The Festival of Two Worlds at Spoleto, Italy, is to examine in July a new play by Tennessee Williams, "The Milk Train Doesn't Stop Here Any More."

Previously, Williams intended to test the drama in Australia, but ruled out that project because of the distance.

The play's cast is to include Mildred Dunnock and Paul Robbing. Herbert Machiz is to direct.

Benny Goodman Ends 'Saint' Opera Adapted Central Asian Tour

TASKHENT, U.S.S.R. (AP) — Benny Goodman and his band, wound up their central Asian tour Sunday night with two well received concerts.

The shows were cut to 65 minutes instead of the usual two hours to permit the musicians to eat, pack and catch a plane to Lenin grad.

The organization plans to present the adaptation here at a series of free performances for the city's Spanish-speaking population, later send the work on a South American tour.

'Saint' Opera Adapted To Promote Emnity

NEW YORK (AP) — Gian-Carlo Menotti's modern opera "The Saint of Bleeker Street" is being enlisted in the cause of international cultural amity

The drama, concerning an Italian girl in New York's Greenwich Village, has been translated into Spanish at the behest of the Symphony of Musical Arts

The organization plans to present the adaptation here at a series of free performances for the city's Spanish-speaking population, later send the work on a South American tour.

Tax Reform Bill May Face Minor Action

Real Act Would be Written by Members Of Conference Group

Chicago Daily News Service
WASHINGTON — The Senate Finance Committee may try to win friends and influence people by proposing a minimum tax reform bill to Congress.

The House in March gave business lobbies quite a beating by passing a maximum tax reform bill containing nearly everything the Kennedy Administration had asked.

If the Senate now goes along with the minimum response idea, the real tax reform bill then would be written in conference later. That would be a compromise between the maximum House and the proposed minimum Senate position.

Tax Mutuals
A minimum Senate bill would tax mutual insurance companies, equalize taxes on savings and loan associations and on commercial banks, and take some action toward taxing incomes of U.S. corporations and U.S. citizens abroad.

This would leave open to future compromise the House action to tighten up income tax reporting of expense accounts; 20 per cent withholding of interest and dividend payments by banks and corporations; disclosure of tax haven income; and the granting of 7 per cent tax credit for purchase of new business and industry equipment.

The minimum-type Senate bill also would discard the Treasury's original proposal of a balancing bill—balancing Treasury income losses from the investment credit against treasury income gains from tightening up other tax loopholes.

Nearly every item in the House bill has been attacked by special interest spokesmen in the Senate hearings. One of the biggest lobbying efforts has been made by savings and loan association groups. Half the current mail of some senators deals with this.

It is hardly a major Faulkner novel, as were "Light in August," "Sanctuary," or "As I Lay Dying." Yet it is a mature comedy, distinctly original, and a thoroughly delightful addition to the canon, into which it shows "reavers," now archaic, fits quite comfortably.

If the proposal to withhold dividends and interest income at the source can't be ignored, the senate committee may propose a floor. This would have tanks and corporations ignore small payments, and rely on taxpayers to report them to Uncle Sam.

The senators have discovered, too, that there's a good as well as a bad side to the present taxation of overseas earnings. The original treasury proposal was to reverse the post-war U.S. policy of encouraging investment abroad. It was proposed to tax incomes of U.S. corporations and U.S. citizens as though earned in the United States.

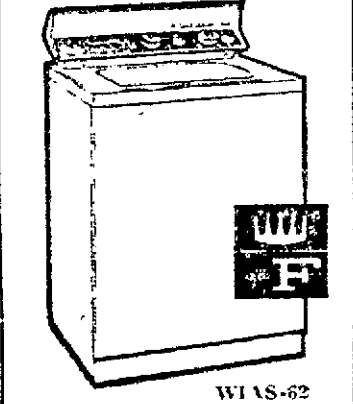

This would put foreign subsidiaries of American corporations, which now can retain earnings or invest them abroad, at a real disadvantage in competing with foreign corporations. Auto companies and others have argued they aren't exporting jobs and contributing to U.S. unemployment, but are competing for business that foreign companies otherwise would get.

TV Music Writer Dies in Hollywood

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Conrad Salinger, 59, writer of the music for "Bachelor Father" on television, died Sunday, apparently from an overdose of sleeping pills.

Police said Salinger lost his house in last winter's BelAir brush fire and had been despondent.

Nason on Education

Preparation for College During Vacation Will Make Fall Easier

BY LESLIE J. NASON, Ed. D.
Professor of Education,
University of Southern California
June graduates, the time to start preparing for college is now—not September!

The difference between your senior year in high school and your freshman year in college represents the greatest single change in your educational life. For the first time, the responsibility for learning will be almost completely in your hands. The way you accept it will set your study pattern for the next four years.

The first semester of college has been the downfall of many students. The teacher no longer outlines every step of the assignment. Parents no longer are on hand to supervise study. It seems so easy that students are lulled into a false sense of security.

And, worst of all, you will have to assume these new responsibilities in an atmosphere filled with new temptations—football or better background. Some games, sorority and fraternity students go all the way back to rushing and parties, new friends, new entertainment opportunities.

Shock With Tests
For most students, the first shock of reality comes after six or eight weeks with the first tests. Don't wait for the mid-term appointment to learn what your college expects of you. Learn it away.

now, before you are caught up in the new routine. For the past few summers, I have helped many students prepare for the first shock of college work. All of them have been successful. Here is my recommended plan:

A month before the beginning of school, try to get copies of the textbooks used in the courses you will take. Study them in a general way so that nothing the course will surprise you. If any part of the text appears to be Outline the first chapter in the college textbook. Learn all the new words. When college instructors start lecturing they expect their students to begin listening and understanding right away.

Take a notebook to class the first day—and take notes in it. The first day of college. Learn the habit of note-taking is vital. Keep a careful watch on assignments, particularly due dates. Don't expect the instructor to keep reminding you. He will not. Start a sensible study program on the first day of college. Learn when, what and how to study. Lack of these skills is responsible for most college failures.

Strike, Violence by Students Shuts Down University in Colombia

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP)—National University's Academic Council has closed the school until Aug. 20 following a student strike and violence.

Authorities took the action Saturday when striking students armed with stones and clubs tried to break up classes attended by nonstrikers.

The strike was called June 14 to protest the expulsion of six students accused of leading a window-smashing spree in downtown Bogota. Authorities said the strike was about 50 per cent effective.

Frontier Humor
It contains, in its bizarre mixture of conversation and absurd incident, the basic strain of American frontier humor that has always been present in Faulkner's work. This vision is part and parcel of the great stream of imaginative humor that flows through the work of such diverse writers as Mark Twain, Melville, Whitman and Poe, and even Erskine Caldwell.

"The Reivers" means plunder, as the word "reaver" means a plunderer. "The Reivers" means a plunderer, as the word "reaver" means a plunderer. "The Reivers" means a plunderer, as the word "reaver" means a plunderer.

In essence, young Lucius' story, Lucius Priest, who looks back in the grandfatherly fashion on a time serious drama of a youth's sudden emergence into maturity.

There is a kind of splendid dig of Jefferson, the county seat of nity in his musings over his con-faughter's mythical Yoknapataw-die: as he emerges: "I was a child no longer now; innocence and childhood were forever lost, many qualifications and interrupt-forever gone from me."

Speaking haltingly and with many qualifications and interrupt-forever gone from me."

the manner in which Faulkner has made his story a keen-eyed novelist knows rare and memorable reading ex-older people often speak), Lucius perience.

North Central Flies More People, Cargo

Airline Carried
92,169 Passengers
In May; Mileage Up

North Central Airlines recorded increases in passengers, mail and cargo carried during May, according to Frank N. Buttomer, vice president, traffic and sales.

Buttomer said North Central's fleet of 43 aircraft carried 92,169 passengers last month, 2,677 more than May of last year.

"At the same time," he added, "our service to the traveling public increased. This May we offered nine per cent more seat miles than in May of 1961. This increase of 3,374,904 available seat miles was due largely to intensified scheduling and the addition of more Convairs."

North Central now operates 13 Convair 340-440's, in addition to 30 Douglas DC-3's.

The company will continue its re-equipment program, Buttomer said, by replacing DC-3's with Convairs as traffic and airport development keeps pace.

Cargo Up

North Central carried 135,088 ton miles of cargo in May, including air express and air freight, for an increase of 25,714 over May 1961. Mail carried last month gained by 4,283 ton miles.

The Minneapolis - St. Paul-based airline, largest of the nation's 13 local carriers, serves 91 cities in 10 states and two Canadian provinces over a 7,100-mile system.

Since beginning scheduled operations in February, 1948, North Central has flown more than one billion passenger miles and carried 6,850,000 passengers without a fatality or injury to passengers or crew members.

Waverly Accident Causes $400 Damage

Damage estimated at $400 resulted from a two-car collision at 4:30 p.m. Friday at the U.S. 10-State 114 intersection at Waverly. Involved were cars driven by Mary McKenny, 16, 1625 Carver Lane, Menasha, and Robert R. Smith, 22, 336 Eighth St., Menasha. According to Calumet County police, Miss McKenny drove into the intersection from the south on a fire lane, and Smith was westbound on the highway.

bership in the ALC at that church's convention Oct. 18 to 24 in Milwaukee. It seems certain that the application will be approved.

According to a merger timetable prepared by a joint committee of the two churches, all formalities can be completed and the union accomplished by Feb. 1.

The LFC initially was involved in negotiations which resulted on Jan. 1, 1961, in the formation of the ALC. The larger body was formed by merger of the Evangelical, United Evangelical and former American Lutheran Churches.

Withdrawal of the LFC from these negotiations came in 1955, when a congregational referendum failed to gain a required three-fourths majority favoring the merger. A second referendum, in 1957, also failed. Then last fall the third ballot among congregations approved negotiations by a two-thirds majority.

Appleton Girl Becomes Franciscan Sister At Manitowoc Convent

Miss Barbara Gosch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Gosch, 500 E. Byrd St., became Sister Michaelyn during reception ceremonies for Franciscan Sisters at Holy Family Convent, Manitowoc.

She now begins a year novitiate after completing her postulancy. She attended St. Therese School and entered the convent after eighth grade.

The Rev. Richard Kleiber, superintendent of schools in the Diocese of Green Bay, presided at the ceremonies, at which 36 other young women received their religious habit.

Mr. and Mrs. John Gosch and their two daughters attended the ceremonies.

The Franciscan Sisters of Christian Charity are engaged in teaching and conduct hospitals, homes for the aged and catechetical centers.

10,000th Gram Off, But Close Doesn't Count

NORWALK, Calif. (AP)—Five men from the Russian Ministry of Higher and Secondary Specialized Education toured Cerritos College here, concentrating on science facilities and curriculum.

Chief of the delegation Boris Kuzmin, asked chemistry instructor Ev Baker to weigh a Russian coin. Baker measured it on an automatic balance and gave an answer of 1.0001 gram.

"Very good," said Kuzmin. "You are within 1-10,000th of a gram."

To Your Good Health

Special Diet, Girdle Help Sagging Stomach

BY JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M. D.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have had a fallen or dropped stomach since I was 28 and am now 40. It gets worse with age. I have to wear a special girdle, and there are not many days that I don't have an upset stomach. My doctor says nothing can be done except to wear the girdle. Isn't there some operation that would help?—MRS. M. E.

Dr. Molner

I wish you'd mentioned your weight, for reasons we'll get to. This condition, also known as visceroptosis, is really rather common. Sufferers of visceroptosis (simply a drooping of the abdominal organs) apparently have a weakness of the fibrous or supporting tissues (ligaments, etc.) which holds these organs in place. This may in many cases be a "horn weakness," as some people have weaker feet, weaker eyes or whatnot. It occurs much more often in people who are thin. Perhaps for that very reason many of them do not understand the value of a specially fitted girdle, which isn't, as is so often the case, intended to give shape to excess fat. Rather, it is fitted to give support where it will help hold the sagging organs up in their normal position.

What happens is that the stomach, bowel, and related digestive organs sag lower than they should. The stomach is slow in emptying, there's a tendency toward constipation, and the automatic nervous activity of the digestive tract becomes sluggish. Bloating, belching and vague abdominal distress are symptoms.

Since the victims so often are lean, gaining weight can be helpful. A few pounds of fat provide some "filling" or "padding" that may push the sliding-down organs upward a bit.

A diet which promotes adequate bowel activity is also helpful. That means some increase in bulk (vegetables, mainly) laxative fruits of which prunes are a famous example; and adequate protein (lean meat, fish, cheese, eggs).

Surgery isn't successful. It has been tried and for a time was used, until its lack of success led to general abandonment. After all, it's not a simple problem. It isn't like tying a knot in a kite string. It's more like trying to repair a run in a nylon stocking—possible, but too intricate to be practical.

Today the better answer is support (a girdle, if it works, and it often does); toning up your system with exercise; improving your posture; taking care to eat regularly; and proper diet.

Arthritis Aid?
Dear Dr. Molner: Some people claim that citrus juices will help relieve arthritis. Is this so? MRS. E. L.

No. There is no specific food which affects arthritis — although a balanced diet is better for an arthritis patient, just as it is better for anybody. As with so many physical conditions, a person who is convinced that some gimmick will help, is very likely to feel better for a time. It's a psychological truism.

Gum Replaced Smoking
Dear Dr. Molner: I have a relative who gave up smoking. Now he chews gum incessantly. Won't this affect his saliva or throat in time?—MRS. C. K.

No. It's good exercise. But dentists are not very happy about people who keep popping in a fresh stick of gum, because the constant "bathing" of the teeth with sugar can encourage cavities.

Lutheran Merger Seems Sure

Merger of the Lutheran Free Church and the American Lutheran Church seemed assured when delegates to the LFC's 68th annual conference in Minneapolis, Minn., voted 530 to 112 in favor of union agreements.

Balloting on the issue brought to an end several years of deliberation by the 90,250-member LFC over the issue of merging with ALC, a 2,250,000-member body which is the third largest unit of Lutheranism in the country.
